Controversy Over Exchange Of Churchmen Renewed...

SOVIET ARCHBISHOP BARRED

—Announcement Expected—
Adlai's Hat In Ring Brings Joy, Acidity ...His Supporters Enthusiastic

By The Associated Press
Adlai Stevenson's long expected announcement that he will go after the Democratic presidential nomination next year produced equally expected reaction Tuesday. Republicans — and one Democrat — ripped into Stevenson. His supporters were enthusiastic.

Several leading Democrats, notably House Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas, declined to take a side.

Gov. Averell Harriman of New York, also touted as a candidate, declared Stevenson was a "fine standard bearer" in 1952 and if nominated this time, "I am sure he will be again." He added he also was sure that if chosen, Stevenson would again have the full support of New York Democrats.

Harriman, often described as receptive himself, had asserted earlier in the day that anyone who wants the nomination will have to work for it, and "I'm not going to work for it."

'Good Man'
Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) said at Miami, where he is conducting a hearing on juvenile delinquency, that Stevenson "is a good man and will be a formidable candidate." Kefauver added, however, that he has "found much encouragement" for his own potential candidacy.

At Gettysburg, Pa., presidential secretary James C. Hagerty said the White House has no comment at all on the Stevenson announcement.

Sen. Ervin (D-NC), who already had expressed a preference for Stevenson, said he believes the former Illinois governor "would make the best candidate" of any now in the running. And as of now, Ervin added, he knew of no other likely aspirants than Harriman and Kefauver.

Sen. McClellan (D-Ark.) said "beyond any question" Stevenson would make a "very formidable" candidate.

For acidity, it was hard to choose between statements of Leonard W. Hall, Republican national chairman, and Rep. Walter, Democrat from Pennsylvania.

'Coyness'
Hall said "no candidate in history has said 'give me another chance' with more coyness or with more elaborate staging."

The GOP chairman declared "the artificial buildup of his formal announcement over the past few weeks was slightly ridiculous, to put it mildly." He said Stevenson was "repudiated" in 1952 and "has yet to come up with a suitable quip for the results."

Walter also alluded to the technique Stevenson employed in some of his 1952 campaign speeches. "Warmed-over wisecracks," he said, have no appeal to the voters "on Main Street." Walter called Stevenson "the laughing boy of American politics" and the "most discredited presidential candidate ever to hoist himself upon the voters."

Walter has been cold on Stevenson for some time. After a 1952 campaign stop in the congressman's district, Stevenson's train pulled out with Walter still waiting to speak with the candidate. The Pennsylvanian had wanted to discuss Stevenson's criticism of the country's immigration law, which Walter helped to draw up.

'Presumptuous'
In New Jersey, Gov. Robert B. Meyner (D) said it would be "presumptuous of me" to assure any aspirant of his state's 32 convention votes. Meyner also said it was possible, though not decided, that he will be a "favorite son" candidate. Harriman likely will go to the convention with the same designation from New York.

Rayburn was conspicuous among those who reserved comment. Stevenson's associates have been banking heavily on the speaker to seize control of Texas' convention delegation from Gov. Allan Shivers, who opposed Stevenson in 1952 and has promised to do the same next year.

All Rayburn would say was: "I'm not yet ready to discuss presidential prospects."

With any shadow of a question mark removed from Stevenson's intention, discussion continued on what President Eisenhower might do. As the President himself enjoyed a trip about his Gettysburg farm, Sen. Jackson (D-Wash.) said he didn't think Eisenhower would run as a "part-time president" or be elected if he does.

Sen. Flanders (R-Vt.) said if Eisenhower does choose to run, he believes the public will feel the President is confident "he can do all the things that a president needs to do."

Flanders said he is "prayerfully hopeful" Eisenhower will have recovered sufficiently from his heart attack to seek re-election.

AND THE ARCH CAME TUMBLING DOWN

It wasn't the sky that came tumbling down on Herbert A. Flack, 28, of Topeka, Kan., but several thousand pounds of bricks, beams and boards. Flack tried to drive a semi-trailer truck through the 17th Street entrance to the Fairgrounds but there just wasn't room. He escaped through the window of the truck uninjured. According to Flack he had been looking for the Watson Brothers Truck Company dock when he became lost on the Fairgrounds. After receiving directions, he was leaving the grounds when the accident occurred.

Flack said he was driving about 10 m.p.h. The truck is owned by William Whitegone of Denver but was leased to Watson Brothers. Damage to the entrance was estimated by E. C. Schultz, secretary of the Fair Board, at between $5,000 and $6,000. (Star Staff Photo.)

U. S. Cancels Boris' Permit Into Country

State Department Says He Wants More Rights Than Reds Gave American Priest

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has canceled a visa granted 11 days ago to Russian Archbishop Boris. He is being barred on the grounds he wants more rights than those permitted an American priest in Moscow.

The unexpected State Department action, disclosed at a news conference Tuesday, makes it likely Russia will retaliate by revoking a visa granted Father Louis Dion who was set to leave for Russia about Dec. 1.

Father Diron, a member of the Roman Catholic Assumptionist order, would have replaced Father Georges Bissonnette who was expelled from Russia last March.

'Unacceptable'
In barring entry of Archbishop Boris, the State Department said he wanted to perform a "broad and unacceptable function" — to head up an American branch of the Russian Orthodox Church. Thus he would have administered to Americans who belong to this church, as well as to Russians.

This could not be permitted, said a department spokesman, because any American priest ever allowed in Moscow under the Soviet regime was limited to ministering to the religious needs of Americans and foreign diplomats.

Must Conform
If Archbishop Boris wants to limit his activities to such a scope, the department said, it is willing to allow him into the country, even though he is of higher rank than any American clergymen permitted to go to Russia.

Acting on instructions from the department, the American Embassy in Moscow canceled on Saturday visas given the archbishop and his private secretary.

Russia, in a formal note delivered last Thursday which the department did not make public, apparently contended that under the Roosevelt-Litvinoff agreement of Nov. 16, 1933, its archbishop had a right to carry on administrative as well as religious duties in the United States.

Claim Disputed
Disputing this, Press Officer Lincoln White said the State Department was operating on a tit for tat basis under the agreement and that the Soviet clergymen could not be allowed to do anything the American priest was barred from doing.

Archbishop Boris and his secretary visited the United States for a 60-day period last January. The department refused to extend his visa when asked to do so by the Soviet Government. Whereupon, Russia canceled Father Bissonnette's visa. The State Department promptly protested this, saying Russia took the action against Father Bissonnette not on personal grounds "but solely in retaliation."

Snow And Cold Cross Nebraska

Weather Bureau Forecast Drops Snow; Temps To Be 10 Above

Cold tightened its grip on Nebraska late Tuesday and early Wednesday after snow that fell all over the state started to subside.

Early Wednesday, only Lincoln and Omaha reported that snow was still falling. In some parts of the state, skies had actually cleared.

But with the clearing heavens, the temperature caught Cornhuskers in an icy chill. The mercury dipped down to 7 below at Valentine and 5 below at Scottsbluff and Chadron, with other readings slightly higher.

None were above 10; however.

A new, early-morning forecast by the Weather Bureau dropped snow from the predictions. Instead, Wednesday was to be clear or clearing with diminishing winds.

High temperatures were to be generally near the 10 above mark, with southeast Nebraska in what was called a "cold wave" area and Panhandle temperatures were to be "not so cold."

Wind Over State
Wind conditions over the whole mid-America area were not bad, but combined with the cold temperatures made it uncomfortable outside. Early Wednesday, Omaha and Grand Island reported the highest winds—hitting about 20 miles an hour.

The snow lay in a nice white blanket over the state.

Precipitation figures showed North Platte with .09 of an inch and Lincoln with .02.

No ice or sleet was reported in Nebraska, though there was some in neighboring Kansas, Nebraska and Iowa. But some roads were described as hazardous from the packed snow.

In the 22-county area served by the Lincoln Telephone and Telegraph Company, no reports of downed lines were made.

The snow was heavier farther west with 2½ inches at Ogallala and Big Springs reporting between two and three inches.

3 School Bonds Get OK

Omaha, Falls City Majorities Big

Bond issues for school construction won whopping majorities in two Nebraska communities Tuesday, passed by a small majority in a third and failed in a fourth.

Falls City voters approved a $525,000 bond issue by 90 per cent and Omaha's Westside voters gave a thumping 87 per cent vote of approval for a $7 million issue. In Minden, voters approved a $600,000 issue by 55 per cent, just barely above the 55 per cent needed for passage.

At Hyannis, however, voters rejected a bond issue for $270,000 for the Grant County Schools. The vote was 108 for and 98 opposed, just short of the needed 55 per cent.

Falls City Okays $525,000 Issue

FALLS CITY, Neb. (P)—Falls City voters Tuesday gave 90 per cent approval to a $525,000 bond issue for two elementary schools. A 55 per cent vote of approval was needed.

The vote was 1,811 for and 195 against in one of the biggest turnouts for a municipal election.

Omaha's Westside OKs $7,500,000

OMAHA (P)—Omaha school district 66 (Westside) Tuesday approved a seven and a half million dollar bond issue for schools. The vote was 1,026 for and 155 against, a majority of 87 per cent compared to the 55 per cent needed.

Involved are four new elementary schools, a new junior high school, and additions to the senior high school and three elementary schools.

Minden's Voters Favor Bond Issue

MINDEN, Neb. (P)—Minden voters Tuesday approved a $600,000 bond issue for a junior and elementary school, with an auditorium and a gymnasium, by an unofficial vote of 807 to 595.

A year ago the voters had turned down a similar proposal.

Hyannis Refuses $275,000 In Bonds

Lincoln Star Special
HYANNIS, Neb. — Voters in Grant County's School District 1 Tuesday turned down by a slender margin a proposal to issue $275,000 in bonds for construction of a new high school building.

The vote was 108 for, 94 against, and was just short of the necessary 55 per cent favorable ballot. With the 94 votes against the proposition, 111 favorable votes were required to approve the issue.

Big 4 Near End Of Conference —Still Deadlocked On Security

GENEVA (INS) — The Big Four foreign ministers Tuesday night approached the end of their deadlocked conference, entwined in a new Soviet propaganda maneuver and a barrage of accusation and recrimination over their failures.

The ministers may even have trouble agreeing on a final communiqué at their closing session Wednesday.

The ministers tried to solve the stalemate over improved East-West contacts and returned to the number one problem—German unification and European security.

Spradling Says: State Mental Patients 'Lack Adequate Care'

OMAHA (P)—Mental patients in Nebraska state hospitals are not getting adequate care, Dr. Frank Spradling, superintendent of the Lincoln State hospital, said Tuesday.

Although patients are "well housed and well fed," he told members of the state's mental hospital advisory boards here, "our hospitals are woefully understaffed in all categories except ward attendants."

He said the state deserved some of the recent criticism aimed at the three hospitals "low discharge rate, but our new program, headed by the Psychiatric Institute, is certain to correct this situation."

He said that since 1939, the hospitals' patient load has risen from 4,121 to 6,428, but the number actually confined at the three hospitals has jumped only from 3,961 to 4,746. This, he said, was because the hospitals have expanded their program of sending patients home on convalescent leave. There were only 293 on this status in 1939, compared with 1,522 today.

The average hospital stay is eight years at a cost of $851 per patient per year.

Dr. Charles G. Ingham, superintendent, Norfolk explained methods of commitment to Nebraska hospitals.

"We are making progress toward pacing more emphasis on medicine and less on law in our commitment procedures," he said.

New Approach
Dr. Francis J. O'Neill of Central Islip, N.Y., director of a 10,000 bed state mental hospital on Long Island, told the conferees of a new approach emphasizing early diagnosis and care. This program, which New York started two years ago, will be inaugurated here next year under Dr. Thaddeus Krush, new Institute staff member.

It consists of setting up mental health clinics in small communities which have no state mental hospitals, Dr. O'Neill said.

Earlier in the day, Dr. M. A. Taumianz, chairman of the Central Inspection Board of the American Psychiatric Assn., advised establishment of 20 small mental health facilities in Nebraska.

'Need Branches'
"Nebraska has three large mental hospitals," Dr. Taumianz said. "You are trying to add more beds. You should have 20 branches throughout the state so people could be within walking distance of services."

He said these branches should be similar to the Nebraska Psychiatric Institute in Omaha, which he termed "a dream, and which gives me hope for the future in Nebraska."

On the other hand, he said Nebraska now has only 28 doctors to care for the 5,000 patients in mental hospitals and "that's pretty backward."

I understand you have not more than 50 registered nurses," he added "and with these spread over three shifts it's no wonder why so many patients remain in the hospitals."

Fines Given Brothers After 2 Disturbances

Lincoln Star Special
WILBER, Neb.—Fines were assessed here Tuesday afternoon against two brothers involved in disturbances at Crete and at the Border Inn, located between Milford and Dorchester.

Alfred Schoenthal of Lincoln, and his brother, Vernon, 20, of Roca withdrew not guilty pleas and pleaded guilty in Justice of the Peace Henry H. Dietrich's court to charges resulting from the Sunday night disturbances.

The brothers were each fined $65 on charges of disturbing the peace at the Border Inn and $35 each on charges of disturbing the peace at Crete. In addition, Alfred Schoenthal was fined $100 on a speeding charge and lost his driver's license for six months. Vernon Schoenthal was fined $50 on an intoxicating charge, according to County Attorney Alan Steinacher.

The brothers together with another pair of brothers, Clifford D. Kroon and Larry D. Kroon, both of Roca, were arrested Sunday night following the Crete and Border Inn incidents. The Kroon brothers, who pleaded guilty to disturbing the peace charges, were each fined $35 and costs in the justice of peace court Monday.

Boys' Drinking Was Not At Roca Tavern
The group of youths had not been drinking Sunday in a Roca tavern, Marshall Lux, Roca tavern operator, informed The Star.

2 Women Murdered

NEW YORK (P)—Two women, one nude, were found shot to death Tuesday in a blood-spattered office in the Jackson Heights section of Queens. Police called it a double murder.

"Right now it's a first class mystery," said a police lieutenant.

One of the victims was a red-haired electrolysis, an expert who removes unwanted hair by electrical devices. The other victim was a girl just engaged to be married who had an appointment at the office.

No weapons were found and there was no immediate clue as to motive.

'Two Thuds'
Dr. Herbert Schwartz, a chiropodist, called police in midafternoon. He said he had heard "two thuds" from the electrolysis office which adjoins his.

Police found the operator of the electrolysis office, Mae Gazzo, 32, Fairlawn, N. J., face down on the floor near a window. Fully clothed, she had been shot in the back.

Nearby, in the center of the room, was the nude body of Kathleen M. Egan, 25, an American Telephone and Telegraph Co. reports clerk. She had been shot in the left side of the head.

Man Breaks Into Car Firm; Booked On Drunk Charge

A 29-year-old Lincoln laborer was booked on a drunk charge at the city jail after he had broken the front door glass at DuTeau Chevrolet Co. at 1800 O and entered the building early Wednesday morning.

The man was seen by two Lincoln youths who were driving by in a car. They turned around and drove back past the showroom to observe the man sitting in a new car.

The two youths telephoned headquarters and police took the man into custody. He suffered a cut wrist, police said.

Police said apparently nothing was taken.

Searchers Miss Hospital Escapees During Snowfall

A search party during Tuesday night's snowstorm failed to apprehend two escapees from the Lincoln State Hospital who had frightened a farm family shortly after their 7 p.m. escape.

The two were identified as Stanley Putnam, 20, a transfer from the Men's Reformatory, and Lawrence White, 18, a transfer from Kearney Industrial School.

The sheriff's office said both were wearing blue shirts and dark pants, but had no coats.

A family spotted the men on the William Haase farm 1½ miles southwest of the prison farm.

Officials said the pair were spotted running across the yard and entering a barn of the William Haase farm, 1½ miles southwest of the hospital, and the family notified authorities.

A search of the farmyard and neighborhood revealed nothing.

North Platte Man, Wife Found Dead

Sheriff Reports Murder, Suicide

NORTH PLATTE, Neb. (P)—Sheriff George Howard Tuesday night reported the finding of the bodies of Claude Williams, 35, and his wife, Judy, about the same age, after a search launched in late afternoon.

Howard said Williams had shot his wife in the head and then had killed himself with a bullet between the eyes.

The sheriff told this story: About 4 p.m. Williams went to the packing plant where his wife was employed. He had a 22 automatic pistol in his pocket and forced his wife to accompany him to his car.

Company officials, seeing the action, notified the sheriff and a search began. A farmer found the car half in a "barrow pit," a ditch from which dirt had been taken, and beside it the bodies of the two.

The couple had separated about 10 days ago. Williams was listed as a railroad worker. Sheriff Howard said there were indications he had been drinking heavily during the day.

Murder Charges Filed Against Saboteur

GRAHAM FACING DEATH

DENVER (INS) — Murder charges have been filed in Denver District Court by District Attorney Bert M. Keating, against admitted saboteur John Gilbert Graham, accused of planting a time bomb aboard a United Air Lines plane which exploded and killed 44 persons, including his own mother, who was arraigned Thursday in the City and County Building to plead guilty or not guilty.

Patterson Signs It

United Air Lines President W. A. Patterson personally signed the murder complaint Tuesday afternoon, charging Graham with the death of his mother, Mrs. Daisy E. King.

Keating, who said he will "prosecute this one, myself," said that if necessary Graham will be charged with the other 43 deaths, beside that of his mother whom he is accused of murdering for her insurance.

The district attorney said he will definitely seek a conviction of first degree murder, which means death from the fumes of a cyanide capsule in the gas chamber at the state prison in Canon City.

Brownell Favors Employee Security Program Change

WASHINGTON (INS) — Atty. Gen. Brownell said Tuesday he favors changing the federal employee security program so as to remove the mandatory requirement that a worker under investigation be suspended pending a hearing.

Such suspension, the attorney general said, should be discretionary with the heads of departments and agencies. He said he will so recommend to Congress.

Brownell said he had put the proposal before the New York Bar Assn.'s committee on federal security procedure at a conference in New York.

The committee is studying all aspects of the federal security program.

County 4-H Leaders Honored By 370 Who Braved Weather

More than 370 persons braved the harsh weather Tuesday evening to attend a banquet at the Cornhusker hotel honoring 212 4-H club leaders in Lancaster County.

Dr. A. Leland Forrest, chancellor of Nebraska Wesleyan University, guest speaker, told the audience that "4-H leaders must help youth in four things."

1. Help youth to know their abilities. A recent study by Time Magazine has shown that 50 per cent of college students in the study did not find vocational satisfaction.
2. Help youth to know the job demands. Prepare them for jobs that are increasing in popularity.
3. Help youth to get the best possible training. No one has the right to be half prepared in this technological age. This does not mean everyone should go to college.
4. Help youth to discover workable aims for living. It is only the intelligent we need to fear — those that use their talent without moral standards.

Miss Mae Kubetski was presented with a pin for 20 years service as a 4-H Club leader.

Fifteen year pins were presented to Mrs. D. E. Hutchinson and Everett Naahs.

Mrs. Elton Lux, Frank Munn and Mrs. Dan Olson were recipients of ten-year service pins.

Five-year leaders' pins were given to Mrs. Ralph Baughman, Art Boldebeck, Mrs. Elmer Criley, Mrs. Frank Harder, Phillip Henderson, Mrs. Joyce Kountz, Mrs. Ten Munn, Mrs. Byron Peterson, Mrs. Victor Siedell, Mrs. Floyd Steinhilber and Mrs. Charles Weichert.

Miss Elaine Skucius presented the service pins.

Miller and Paine was host to the dinner.

Israel To Offer List Of Weapons She Wants Today

WASHINGTON (INS) — Israel will tell the U.S. Wednesday morning just what American arms she wants to buy to offset the shipment of Communist weapons to Egypt.

The list of "defensive" weapons will be taken to the State Department by Ambassador Abba Eban and handed to acting secretary Herbert Hoover Jr. at 9 a.m. CST.

The U.S. has promised to give "sympathetic" consideration to arms needed for "legitimate self-defense." The embassy said last week that its request falls within that category.

The pressure from Israel for permission to buy American arms was increased after Egypt contracted to purchase large quantities of Communist weapons from Czechoslovakia.

The Israeli government has been working on the list for several weeks. The U.S. said it could not make a definite agreement to sell arms to Israel until it receives a "specific list."

BIG STRIKE FIZZLES IN ARGENTINA

BUENOS AIRES (INS) — Provisional President Pedro Aramburu's "get tough" policy with Argentine labor shook the foundations of the once all-powerful General Confederation of Labor (CGT) Tuesday and stopped a threatened nationwide strike dead in its tracks.

The CGT's Peronista bosses rallied thousands of workers for walk-outs in major meat-packing, glassworks, rubber, tire and shoe manufacturing industries but tens of thousands of anti-Peronista laborers boycotted the strike.

An atmosphere of business as usual prevailed in downtown Buenos Aires and other major cities.

The CGT's top command—who seized power under ousted dictator Juan D. Peron—ordered an indefinite general strike to begin last night in a show of force against Aramburu's fledgling government.

But—at least at the outset—their orders were rebuffed by a huge majority of their six million members.

Newsweek Sees Ford '55 Income At $350 Million

NEW YORK (INS) — Newsweek magazine reported that net income of the Ford Motor Co. for 1955 "should hit 350 million dollars, or somewhat better."

In its issue for Nov. 21, Newsweek said it "has learned the most tightly kept secret in modern-day American business" — how much money the family-held Ford Co. is making.

"The best year in Ford's history — until 1955 — was 1950, a year that set new records for most automakers," the magazine said. "In that year, it has been reported, Ford earned some 250 million dollars after taxes — and the report is almost exactly accurate."

"In 1955," Newsweek went on, "Ford's net will be far better than in 1950; in fact, in the first nine months alone, Ford's after-tax earnings equaled or exceeded the 250 million dollars earned in all of 1950."

Two Prisoners Break Buffalo County Jail

KEARNEY, Neb. (INS) — A general alert was out Tuesday for two prisoners who escaped from the Buffalo County jail in Kearney and apparently fled westward.

Buffalo County Sheriff Lloyd Frank said the two men were William A. Kollett, 42, a transient who had been bound over to district court on a bad check charge, and Laverne Loeffelholz, 18, who was being held on a traffic charge for return to the Boys Training school here.

Two men answering their descriptions were seen boarding a train at Kearney about 2:30 a.m. Monday and sometime later a pair believed to be the same two were seen at Grand Island.

Frank said close examination showed the sawed through two bars in their cell and swung loose a metal plate which was used to join the bars to the floor. The plate was swung back in place so it was not apparent there had been an opening.

The pair was last seen Sunday night at meal time and they were not missed until the morning checkup Monday.

Sec. Dulles Will Address Nation

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (INS) — The White House indicated Tuesday that State John Foster Dulles will make a nationwide radio-television report on the Big Four foreign ministers conference he has been attending in Geneva.

Dulles will see President Eisenhower Thursday and Friday at Gettysburg to fill him in personally on what happened at the four-power meeting.

His briefing will supplement and add more detail to the daily reports which the President has been given even while a patient at Fitzsimons Army Hospital in Denver.

Poultry Event Exhibits Set Up

FREMONT, Neb. (INS) — Tuesday was "cooping in" day for setting up exhibits at the four-day Nebraska State Poultry show held under the directions of the Nebraska State Poultry Assn.

Entries were expected from as far away as Florida and Oregon.

In connection with the annual event there will be district meetings for the White Plymouth Rock Club, the White Faced Red Cornish Club, and International Cornish Bantam Breeders Assn.

Judging will begin Wednesday with the picking of champions to be done on Thursday.

There will be a junior judging contest Friday for vocational agriculture and 4-H students. More than 100 boys from 35 eastern Nebraska counties were expected to compete.

Dad Buried Near Two Slain Sons

CHICAGO (INS) — Grief-stricken Mrs. Eleanor Schuessler sobbed a final farewell and then collapsed Tuesday before her husband was buried beside two small sons murdered along with their buddy just 25 days ago in Chicago.

About 50 relatives and close friends attended the requiem mass at St. Tarcissus Church for Anton Schuessler Sr., whom doctors privately admit died of a broken heart.

Following the funeral mass, Schuessler was buried in St. Joseph's Cemetery beside his sons, Peter, 13, and Anton Jr., 11. The battered bodies of the two boys and their companion, 13-year-old Robert Peterson, were found Oct. 18 in the Robinson's Woods forest preserve near Chicago. The boys were buried Oct. 22.

Meantime, police grilled a new suspect in connection with the triple slaying after the man refused to leave the funeral home when an attendant asked all but Schuessler relatives to leave.

Mom Had To Pay Extra For Bags Holding Dynamite

DENVER (INS) — The mother of John Gilbert Graham, accused of planting a time bomb aboard a United Air Lines plane that exploded in mid-air killing 44 persons, had to pay an extra charge for excess baggage on the flight which she rode to death.

Mrs. Daisy King, one of the victims in the air disaster near Longmont, Colo., Nov. 1, checked in her baggage with the aid of her 23-year-old son before takeoff from Denver. Her luggage was 37 pounds over the 40-pound limit.

Added to Mrs. King's round-trip fare to Anchorage, Alaska, was a charge of $27.82 for the extra poundage.

It was in one of his mother's suitcases that Graham said he planted a home-made bomb of 25 sticks of dynamite together with a timing device, dynamite caps, a battery and eight-foot coil.

$655,000 Payment

CHICAGO (INS) — Thirteen of the passengers who died in the crash of a United Air Lines plane in Colorado two weeks ago will be paid $655,000 by the Continental Casualty Co., one of the largest writers of coin machine travel insurance.

This was announced by John Cramer, superintendent of the Aviation Accident Division of the Chicago insurance firm. He said Continental wrote the bulk of the flight insurance taken out by passengers on the ill-fated plane.

Two other insurance companies, Associated Aviation Underwriters of New York and Mutual Benefit Assn. of Omaha, also sell insurance in coin operated machines at airports. However, it was understood their loss in the Colorado crash was considerably less than Continental's.

City Greetings

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (INS) — The Chamber of Commerce wanted to attract new business. They sent 1,000 picture post cards to industrialists, bankers and potential investors throughout the nation with the notation: "Having wonderful time. Wish you and your company were here."

SEA CLAIMS MARINES IN MANEUVERS

OCEANSIDE, Calif. (INS) — Six Marines were lost in battering surf Tuesday, bringing the toll of death in current U.S.-Canadian naval maneuvers to 11.

The 1st Division Marines, including the commanding officer of the 3rd Amphibious Tractor Battalion, were hurled into the surf when their landing craft capsized.

Two bodies, including that of the battalion commander, were recovered.

Search for the other four was continuing while the rest of the 15,000 Marines swarmed ashore from transports of the amphibious force onto a Camp Pendleton beach.

Five men were killed Friday when a Navy Skyraider bomber crashed onto the U.S. destroyer Hopewell. They were the three fliers and two Hopewell crewmen. Five others aboard the Hopewell were burned.

The rugged sea, lashed by a 25-mile an hour wind, capsized the amphibious craft and a rubber boat only a short distance from the beach. Other Marines in them were able to swim ashore.

None of the dead and missing are Nebraskans.

Confessed Killer To Kansas City

SAN FRANCISCO (INS) — Arthur Ross Brown, 30-year-old former San Quentin Prison convict, who confessed the murder of Mrs. William R. Allen Jr., 34, in Kansas City, Mo., was ordered removed to Kansas City late Tuesday.

The removal order was made by U.S. Commissioner Joseph Karesh on a charge that Brown transported a stolen car across state lines—a federal offense.

However, once he is back in Kansas City he will be subject to trial for the Allen murder.

Confident Adlai Strikes Peace Theme In Announcing He'll Run

Demo Pledges An Active Search For Better World

CHICAGO (AP) — Confident and beaming, Adlai E. Stevenson announced what almost everybody already knew—that he will be a candidate for the 1956 Democratic presidential nomination.

Stevenson, the 1952 nominee who was defeated by President Eisenhower, struck a "prosperity and peace" theme in a 349-word announcement he aids handed reporters.

He said he will do all he can to persuade his party to let him lead it in a race where he may be opposed by a new Republican nominee instead of the President because:

"First, I believe it is important for the Democratic party to resume the executive direction of our national affairs:

"Second, I am assured that my candidacy would be welcomed by representative people in and out of my party throughout the country.

"Third, I believe any citizen should make whatever contribution he can to the search for a safer, saner world."

On this point Stevenson made a bold bid to wrest from the Republicans the "peace—prosperity—progress" slogan they have built up for the 1956 campaign. Said he:

"The task for the Democratic party is to make 'prosperity and peace' not a political slogan but an active search for a better America and a better world."

As the first candidate officially in the race in either party, Stevenson and his aids exuded confidence that he not only can win the nomination but will be able to dispose of Republican opposition in next year's election.

Friends said Stevenson's decision to run actually was made months ago before President Eisenhower was stricken with a heart attack.

Despite advance planning, there were two false starts on his announcement before its actual release. Stevenson later read his own words for the benefit of television and news reel cameras but postponed answering any questions until a news conference Wednesday.

Pennsylvania, where he is expected to obtain his campaign manager, also may find Stevenson an entry in a preferential primary test. James A. Finnegra, state secretary of Pennsylvania, has been tabbed as Stevenson's likely campaign director.

Stevenson's friends are talking also of an entry in the Florida and California primaries. In one or both of these he might collide head-on with Kefauver.

Stevenson indicated in his statement he is ready to blast at the Republicans in general and at the Eisenhower administration in particular.

Along this line he said it was "apparent that wisdom and responsibility began to reappear in the conduct of our affairs only with the return of Congress to Democratic leadership in the 1934 election."

"Our great opportunity lies in the fact that our prosperity and wealth can now be used to give all our people the higher standards and wider opportunities which are mankind's universal dream," he declared.

This design appears as part of the metered-postage stamp on all Lancaster County letters and mail. This postage "advertisement," has been adopted by the County Board for informing taxpayers as to where their tax-dollars go. The idea resulted from complaints during the equalization period about increasing taxes, according to Commissioner Del Lienemann. He said a future design might plug for the Community Emergency Shop, now a county agency.

President Of Municipalities League Quits

T. E. Thompson, city manager of Scottsbluff, has resigned as president of the League of Nebraska Municipalities and has indicated he also will be quitting the Scottsbluff post, it was disclosed Tuesday.

Mayor John Martin of Grand Island, who has been first vice president, moves up to president.

Thompson, in submitting his resignation to the League's executive board, said he regretted having to do so "but since I will soon leave the services of the city of Scottsbluff I would not be eligible to continue in office."

"I have looked forward to this year with hopes and anticipation that we could have a very fruitful year in the history of the League," he added.

League Secretary C. E. Beals said the resignation was accepted "with regret" by the executive board.

Because of the vacancy, the league's chain-of-command moved up one step. Mayor L. T. Torrens of Wahoo became first vice president. Mayor Victor Bremer of Nebraska City, oldest board member, became second vice president. And North Platte Mayor C. J. Frazier was named to fill the vacancy on the executive board.

Douglas Co. Will Appeal Gas Tax Case

OMAHA (AP) — Douglas County officials said Tuesday the gas tax case will be appealed to the state supreme court, but they hoped that $2,912,828 in impounded revenue will be distributed to Nebraska counties immediately.

August Ross of the County Attorney's office, said the Lancaster County District Court decision, holding in effect that neither former state treasurer Frank B. Heintze nor his bonding companies would have to pay up any losses accruing to counties from improper distribution of gas tax funds between 1950 and 1954, would be contested.

Douglas and Lancaster Counties argued that Heintze shorted them by using outdated population figures in the gas tax distribution formula.

Ross said Douglas county has no objection to immediate distribution of taxes frozen after the suit was brought. The local share of the frozen revenue is $149,162 in mail route money and $223,744 in county roads and streets.

Brick And Mortar

Up in Omaha, Nebraska's mental health program, which has been kicked around in discussion in recent months, was being given an airing before the members of the newly created advisory boards for mental institutions.

Once again the topic was overcrowding. Carl Botsford, the engineer for the Board of Control, revealed that there are now 4,703 patients in the three mental institutions being housed in facilities designed to accommodate only 3,723. Overcrowding, Mr. Botsford reported, will be reduced somewhat when buildings to house the tubercular and criminally insane patients are constructed at the Lincoln hospital, and a new structure is completed at Ingleside at Hastings. Overcrowding is an old story which never seems to reach a happy ending.

But the amazing statement credited to Engineer Botsford is that he said that since 1947, when a special building levy was approved by the Nebraska Unicameral Legislature, the Board of Control has built 24 major buildings and of that number only five provided more beds for mental patients. That means that the board actually devoted only 20 per cent of its building funds to correct the overcrowded conditions at the mental hospitals. We haven't any idea how Mr. Botsford defines a major building, or what purpose the other 19 buildings of this nature, built in the last eight years under the supervision of the board, served. The figures rather emphatically reject the charge that the Board of Control in its direction of the mental hospitals has been engaged in a brick-and-mortar campaign.

Trading Death For Gain

The confession of a Denver youth that he had planted a bomb in a United Airlines plane, resulting in an explosion that killed 44 persons, all with the motive of collecting insurance on the death of his mother, a passenger, is a statement of indescribable monstrosity.

Yet the young man coolly told of fashioning the bomb, hiding it in his mother's suitcase, buying $37,500 of insurance covering her life, waving farewell to her as she entered the doomed plane, and then waiting around the airport until the first reports came in of the terrible tragedy. It leaves one aghast.

The youth was held first under a federal charge of peacetime sabotage, an offense calling for mild punishment in terms of the slaughter of 44 victims. If his confession stands up, if he is truly as guilty as he says he is, then the more serious charges of homicide must be laid against him lest justice go unrequited. Meantime, there is something else to consider. If the information emanating from Denver investigators and news services is correct there is back of this youth a long story of juvenile maladjustment and delinquency. There is also back of it a failure to face, to evaluate or to treat realistically a set of youthful faults which continuously described potentialities for such acts against society as the final tragedy illustrated.

The public has received a stern warning. Delinquency of the real sort is not the private property of the afflicted nor is treatment of it to be guided without an evaluation of the public interest—the general security. The public needs saving from the dangerous maladjusts as much as they need saving from themselves.

Stevenson's Candidacy

We well remember that summer day back in 1952 when as governor of Illinois, Adlai Stevenson addressed the Democratic National Convention in Chicago. And in a speech generally given in orthodox form, he succeeded in capturing the imagination of a packed amphitheatre.

Blase newspaper men, accustomed to looking upon welcoming addresses with a certain measure of disdain and boredom, sat up and took notice.

Here was a man the occupants of the press stands said was different.

He was different.

He was a reluctant candidate for his party's nomination for the presidency. Not until the last 48 hours of the convention was it certain that Adlai Stevenson would not turn his back upon his mounting circle of supporters. There were those unkind enough to suggest that Stevenson was putting on an act. His cynical critics said he wanted the nomination so badly his tongue was hanging out, but those who knew Mr. Stevenson best knew that there was not even a grain of truth in the charge that he was playing hard to get.

We have always had our doubts that any man should seek public office—from the highest, most exalted office in the land to the lowest and most humble—without a sense that he can in truth and in fact fill the post to which he aspires by nomination in the highest sense of service. Mr. Stevenson, in our judgment, hurt himself in 1952 by his own reluctance to become a candidate.

It will be different in 1956. Now, near the close of 1955, he announces his candidacy for the presidency, an eager, willing candidate convinced that there is a job to be done in American public life and that, given the opportunity, he can do it.

The nature and character of this fight which the Democratic party must wage was stated admirably by Mr. Stevenson in a single paragraph of his announcement Tuesday.

"The task of the Democratic party is to make 'peace and prosperity' not a political slogan, but an active search for a better America and a better world," Mr. Stevenson said.

He could have used eight columns of type and he could not have said it better than in these few words. That is the task of the Democratic party. In this short paragraph Mr. Stevenson establishes his willingness to engage the Republicans in high controversy on an issue it has been apparent had been chosen by the Republicans months ago.

Worst Decision Of '55

The decision by the family-held Ford Motor Company to put 60 per cent of its stock on the market, with voting privileges, for public investment is the biggest piece of private financing news of the moment.

But not everyone is happy about it.

There is deep regret among the company's employees who recall their decision of last summer when the Ford management dealing with the United Auto Workers union proposed an employee stock purchase plan on a 10 per cent annual lay-away basis, the company matching dollars with the workers. The offer was turned down and the union chose instead a pay raise with pension benefits.

Now it turns out that the new stock will be worth fifteen times the price the employees would have had to pay. A second guesser would say that someone made a mighty bad decision.

Wisconsin GOP Aims At Democrat

WASHINGTON — Republican leaders are watching with mixed emotions the Wisconsin attempt to gerrymander one of Sen. McCarthy's vigorous critics out of Congress.

Much as they need every extra seat in the House of Representatives, they recognize that this is the first time in U.S. history that a congressional district has been carved up and voters shifted for the sake of ousting one lone Congressman. Other gerrymanders have been on a state-wide basis. Since this is to unseat Democrat Henry Reuss, who last year defeated the chief McCarthyite in the House of Representatives, Cong. Charles Kersten, they fear the move may boomerang.

Kersten, elected in the past from Milwaukee, has been one of McCarthy's closest friends and used his tactics in the House of Representatives. His district, however, got fed up with him last November and threw him out in favor of Reuss.

The technique Wisconsin Republicans used to redistrict Reuss out of Congress, in the hope of re-electing Kersten, is one of the most amazing seen in any state legislature in some years. GOP Gov. Kohler now has the job of approving or vetoing it.

The Wisconsin Senate, though overwhelmingly Republican, did not want to pass the gerrymander to unseat Reuss. And though the lower Wisconsin house had passed it, the Senate stalled until October 18, when a Republican caucus voted 13 to 11 to kill the gerrymander.

HEAT FROM BIG MONEY
At this point, big contributors to the Wisconsin GOP really got busy. Demanding that Democrat Reuss must be defeated at the next election, they put on such heat that another Republican caucus was called pronto — next day, October 19.

To make sure the second caucus voted right, Republican state treasurer Claude Jasper rushed to Madison, gave a flat ultimatum to Republican state senators that there would be no more campaign contributions if they didn't vote for the Reuss gerrymander. He was blunt and to the point. The GOP caucus knew exactly where its members stood as far as campaign expenses were concerned.

On top of this, William Grede, former president of the National Association of Manufacturers, now Wisconsin GOP finance chairman, has boasted that he will raise a million dollars to elect Republicans. He made his influence felt too.

So the Republican caucus reversed itself, voted to re-consider the Reuss gerrymander.

In order to pass it, however, it was necessary for several Republicans who had opposed the gerrymander to vote to suspend Senate rules in order to permit a vote. Harry Franke and Walter Mertens obliged. They voted to suspend the rules, then turned round and voted against the gerrymander. It passed.

It's now up to Gov. Kohler as to whether he signs or vetoes. Privately he was known to be opposed. GOP Treasurer Jasper, in talking to senators at the GOP caucus, was blunt in inferring that he could control the governor too.

Kohler is now between two fires — big GOP campaign contributors and rising public resentment in Wisconsin against carving up voting districts to oust one anti-McCarthy Democrat from Congress.

Garden Glances With The Moon

There was a new moon early Monday morning and thus began another cycle of lunar quarters. Yesterday this waxing moon was in the flexed, fiery and very barren sign, Sagittarius. Tomorrow morning at 11:59 it will enter the movable, earthy, fruitful sign, Capricorn. And well after midday it will enter the fixed, airy and very barren sign, Aquarius. Then Monday a few minutes past 12 o'clock noon, it will enter the flexed, watery and fruitful sign, Pisces.

Mrs. Swingle, airy and very barren sign, Aquarius. Then Monday a few minutes past 12 o'clock noon, it will enter the flexed, watery and fruitful sign, Pisces.

High time you put your roses to bed! Heap mounds of soil from your kitchen garden or compost pile to eight inches or higher around each individual rose bush. Then toss lightly a thin layer of leaves over the entire beds if you choose. Do not get leaves too thick or deep because leaves when wet will pack and mold.

It isn't that roses cannot abide Nebraska's cold winters; it is the oft-times repeated thaws and freezes of February, March and sometimes early April that do the damage. Early in winter the ground freezes and frequently splits. Then comes a balmy day in late winter and a "January thaw," perhaps, then winter days again with the mercury dropping heartlessly.

The splits from freezes made larger by rivulets of water during the thaws are now "open invitations" to the cold and freezing temperatures. Tender and vital root systems are frozen beyond repair all in a few seconds through these splits and cracks. This winter process of nature is called "heaving" of the soil.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto F. Schlaebitz and son, Bruce, 3040 Summit Street . . . the pin oaks were water oaks, after all . . .

Our picture today gives you a glimpse of one of the most artistically landscaped corners in Lincoln, and certainly the very best groomed, spring, winter, autumn or summer. It is the home of Mr. and Mrs. Otto F. Schlaebitz, 3040 Summit Street. Pictured with them is their second son, Bruce, AIC, now stationed at Lincoln Air Base after a two-year stretch in Alaska with the Alaskan Air Command operated out of Fairbanks. Wonder how he compares Alaskan winters with those of Nebraska? Their oak trees were particularly bright and resplendent with color this day. Mr. Schlaebitz mentioned pruning them recently because limbs had grown too large and long, and I told my Texas house guests how Mr. Schlaebitz had checked me last summer when I explained that the oaks with long, drooping branches were not pin oaks, (Quercus palustris) at all, but water oaks (Quercus aquatica) Mr. Schlaebitz telephoned Dr. Raymond Pool of the University of Nebraska Botany Department, who verified what I had said. So until another day—

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: News reports say that Adlai Stevenson will announce his political plans for 1956 Tuesday. Why is that necessary when he has been campaigning now for three years? Getting one's name fixed in the minds of the people is a big asset.

I would willingly vote for him on the one declaration that we should get the government out of business as soon as possible. The government starts something in a temporary sense and soon it becomes permanent, costing billions of dollars.

Take the farm program, for instance. It's been hashed over now for years and nothing permanent has come out of it. Let's have a government of, by and for the people. Free enterprise would cure all the ills being heaped upon us.

Right Wing GOP Resurgent Again

WASHINGTON — Evidence is accumulating that the Republican party is again being confronted by a right wing conservative effort to represent its policy and influence its actions.

This group went into eclipse when the Senate disciplined Sen. Joe McCarthy. It was further blanketed by President Eisenhower's prestige during the period when it appeared that the Geneva spirit might really effect a change in the international atmosphere.

The approach of the presidential election in which Eisenhower was seen as essential to a GOP victory effectively silenced even the most unhappy members of the old guard.

The implicit challenge to the Eisenhower leadership which is now shaping up takes several forms. A new weekly conservative journal of opinion, National Review, with vocal McCarthy supporter, William F. Buckley Jr., as its editor and publisher has appeared.

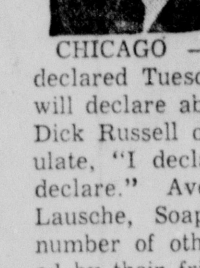

Senate Republican Leader William Knowland wrote its lead article calling upon U. S. policymakers to return to a policy of "liberalism as promised in the 1952 Republican platform."

Senator Knowland recently joined Sen. Barry Goldwater, chairman of the Senate Republican Campaign Committee, in a vigorous attack on union leadership and its political actions.

The Acheson-Hiss refrain was

Once Adlai Could Have It—Not Now

CHICAGO — Adlai Stevenson declared Tuesday, Estes Kefauver will declare about Christmas time. Dick Russell of Georgia will ejaculate, "I declare, I'm too old to declare." Ave Harriman, Gov. Lausche, Soapy Williams and a number of others will be presented by their friends, and not resist beyond a deprecating, "shucks, fellows."

They're all being elaborately polite these days to the man Kefauver says is the unquestioned head of the Democratic party, Harry Truman. By-passing the 1952 banner-carrier of one bone-crushing compound complex sentence, the Tennessee senator says that the ex-prez is the boss and will back only the man he thinks will put up the best fight. The senator added, with a show of dimple, that H.S.T. didn't plan to put any blocks in the senator's way.

We'll see. If somebody had asked Stevenson six months ago if it were possible that Truman would not be 110 per cent in favor of his nomination, Stevenson would have been understandably indignant. Had not old Harry given them hell in Stevenson's behalf up and down the country? Had he not on a dozen public occasions plugged his name and pined for the day when the Republican rascals in Washington were replaced with an entire new set of rascals? You bet your sweet life!

The first thing Gov. Harriman said on TV the night he won a somewhat surprising victory over sung again over the week end by the Senate Republican Policy Committee of which Styles Bridges of New Hampshire is chairman. The former secretary of state has written an article for Harper's and a book on foreign policy. Alger Hiss wrote an article on Yalta for Pock-etbook magazine. The Bridges committee suggests that "the two friends are together again" in an effort to capture the Democratic party.

Right-wing Republican senators were conspicuous by their absence from the "welcome home" greetings a majority of GOP senators sent to the President on his return from Denver.

The new journal offers its "whole-hearted wish for the personal well-being and happiness of the man who is elected head of our country and its government. It's Washington newsletter describes his election in these terms:

"Early in 1952 a small band of Eastern financiers, international bankers and industrialists organized the Eisenhower boom and entrusted its inflation to a New York advertising firm. The rest is history."

As for the labor and Acheson-Hiss propaganda, it is clearly out of line with the President's own philosophy and political methods. Under his leadership, the party would not so campaign and the senators responsible know it.

looking over news accounts, I see that it was played by two Nebraska boys. I really thought I saw 11 men on the field during the game.

It's true that Don (Erway) and Willie (Greenlaw) did a wonderful job, also that Don threw the key block that sprung Willie for his long run and touchdown. But I thought I saw some other blocking on the run, along with Willie's good running. I thought I saw some fellows by the names of McWilliams, Fischer, Edwards, Cifra, Berguin, Buterous and others during the whole game.

I have been a Husker fan for several years and I don't believe in giving any one man all the praise, no matter how good he is. More power to the team!

Demand For Nebraska U. Graduates Greater Than Ever

University of Nebraska officials said Tuesday that the demand for graduates is greater than ever. Representatives from many major companies are now visiting the campus to interview 1956 graduates. Although most are interested in persons to be graduated in February, officials said some are talking with geologists and engineers who will not complete college until next June or August.

J. P. Colbert, dean of student affairs and director of occupational placement, expressed the belief that more companies than ever before will have visited the campus by the end of March.

More and Earlier

He said there is "more and earlier" activity in occupational placement than in any previous year. Every day since Oct. 17, there have been two or three companies with one or more representatives interviewing prospective employees. Approximately 60 students each day are interviewed at the central placement bureau.

Dean Colbert said the greatest demand is for men trained in chemical, electrical and mechanical engineering with physicists and chemists also in short supply. The central bureau acts as a coordinating agency for occupational placement activities throughout the campus. Mrs. Metta Jones, bureau secretary, arranges interviews for companies which want to talk with men in several fields. For example, a concern may be looking for mechanical engineers, chemists and accountants, she explained.

Own Placement

The College of Business Administration maintains its own placement bureau for companies seeking persons trained in specific fields of business.

As many as three firms a day are interviewing men in the business administration bureau and appointments already have been made for as late as April.

Miss Marguerite Hughes, bureau secretary, said the greatest demand is for persons trained in accounting with many companies also needing sales and management personnel.

Individual departments in the University also are arranging interviews for companies seeking graduates in specific fields.

One of the busiest is the geology department where 15 of the approximately 25 major oil companies have already scheduled interviews with men who are to be graduated as late as August, 1956. One oil company is looking for men who will receive their doctorate degrees in June, 1957. Dr. William N. Gilliland, chairman of the department, said.

In departments, such as geology, it is possible for the company representatives to hold group meetings to explain the set-up of the company as well as to interview individuals.

A unique feature of the central and business administration placement bureaus is their noon luncheon program. Company representatives, during the noon hour, meet and talk with professors who know the men being interviewed.

One representative said the University of Nebraska was the first school he had visited where he had such an opportunity to talk with the professors.

"It really helps put the right man in the right place," he said. "The University has gone out of its way to get everything set up."

Four Teenagers Injured In Crash

NORFOLK, Neb. (U)—Four teenagers were injured, three of them seriously enough to require hospitalization, when their car rolled over 9½ miles northwest of Norfolk on a county road.

State Patrolman Frank Dineen, said the car, driven by Myron Reikofski, 17, of Tilden, apparently went out of control and rolled over 2½ times. Reikofski suffered a compound fracture of the left leg.

Also hospitalized were Martha Jo Frey, 14, of Pierce, who had deep cuts on the back of her hand, and Duane Beed, 18, Tilden, who had deep cuts on his scalp.

Eugene Beeds, 14, brother of Duane, suffered cuts about his right ear, but was not hospitalized.

makes all meats taste better

Folks gobble up B-V giblet gravy!

You can make it ahead of time, while the bird's still roasting. Rich, extra flavorful brown gravy, and lots of it—plenty for potatoes and dressing and leftovers! The secret is Wilson's B-V, the concentrated extract of real meat. Here's how:

4 tbs. turkey drippings
4 tbs. flour
2 cups water in which giblets were cooked
2 tsp. Wilson's B-V
Giblets and neck meat

Simmer neck and giblets until tender. Remove neck meat and chop giblets fine. Heat drippings in saucepan over low heat. Blend in flour. Add liquid; stir until smooth. When hot, add B-V. Cook until thickened. Serves 6-8. Double recipe if more gravy is needed.

Try B-V in soups, stews, meat loaves, too. It's meat magic in a jar!

State's Employment Picture Said Steady

Labor Market Appears Strong

Labor market conditions in October appeared generally strong throughout most of Nebraska, the Nebraska State Labor Department reported late Tuesday.

Group Named To Study State Oil Association

SCOTTSBLUFF, Neb. (P) — Nebraska's oil industry representatives named a committee to study a state oil association, mostly for independent operators, and how it would function.

W. F. Rogers of Scottsbluff, president of Rogers Oil Co., said the need for an organization was impressed on him when he testified before the last session of the Legislature on oil and gas bills.

"Members of the Legislature want to hear the opinions of many, not just a few," he said.

Attending the meeting here were operators, representatives of major companies, land owners, royalty group representatives and attorneys.

Rogers' proposal got unanimous backing from persons from Sidney, Kimball, Bridgeport, Gering, Harrisburg, Lincoln, Hastings, Benkelman, Alliance, Casper, Chappell, Scottsbluff and Denver.

Named to the study committee were Fred Johnson of Harrisburg, Glen Wallace of Hastings, Ray Smith of Chappell, S. E. Torgeson of Kimball, J. W. Gee of Sidney, R. B. Laughlin of Casper, representing Stanolind Oil and Gas Co., J. H. McNish of Sidney, Paul Martin of Sidney and Rogers.

Payne Resigns Oteo Farm Bureau Position

Halpin Will Address Financial Analysts

OMAHA (P) — George Halpin, executive vice-president of the Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Co., will address the Omaha-Lincoln Society of Financial Analysts Wednesday evening. Halpin will discuss the company's growth and prospects.

into the division's local employment offices, the department pointed out.

Altogether 12,791 job placements were made during October (nearly half in agriculture). Non-farm placements recorded during October has held up as well. The total of 6,587 was only 200 fewer than in September. Placements in construction totaling 1,441 slightly exceeded the September volume. Manufacturing placements increased to 1,337 while trade placements accounted for 1,697. Some 1,455 job openings were filled on November 1 compared to 1,667 on October 1 and 1,070 on November 1 a year ago.

Registrations Up

New registrations for work received during the month moved up slightly to 4,255. Registered unemployment on November 1 came to 7,422, down about 100 from the October 1 total. A year ago on November 1 the count was 6,470.

Unemployment insurance claimants averaged 1,734 each week during October. During September the weekly average was 1,552 while in October 1954 (a year ago) the average was 1,944. Payments totaled $138,563 in October 1955; $139,705 in September 1955; and $174,587 in October 1954.

Conditions around the state: ALLIANCE: Labor demand continued high during October with more people being placed in both farm and non-farm jobs than in September.

BEATRICE: Both labor demand and pay supply were normal for the season in October. There was a good demand for construction workers during the month.

FREMONT: Labor supply as indicated by registered job seekers changed very little during the month. Demand was considerably higher than a year ago.

GRAND ISLAND: Labor market picture shows considerable improvement over September. Active job seeker count was down more than 200 from September 1.

HASTINGS: The number of new job seekers was down 28 per cent from September 1 and the active applicant count on November 1 was 10 per cent less than a month earlier.

KEARNEY: Construction and alfalfa dehydrating operated at high levels during October, but agricultural labor demands were low.

LINCOLN: October non-agricultural employment was up 300 over September with manufacturing, trade and service showing increases. Construction and government showed small decreases. Labor demand was down slightly from September but still good for the season.

MCNEER: A gradual increase in number of unemployed was noted during last two weeks in October. This increase is not unusual. Labor demand remains steady.

NEBRASKA CITY: A seasonal upturn in number of workers seeking jobs was evident in October. Chief job filling industries were manufacturing and construction.

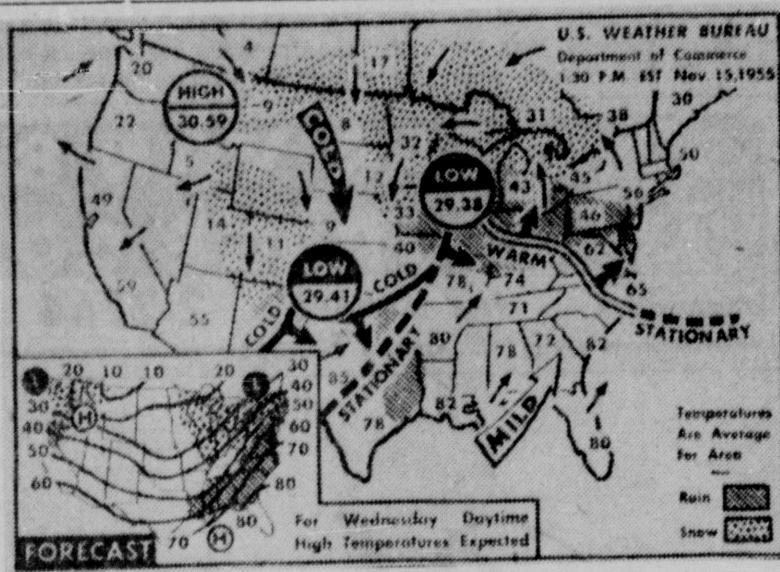

NORFOLK: November 1 count of registered unemployed in the area was by far the largest of recent years. However, the number is small in relation to labor force of area.

NORTH PLATTE: Registered job seekers as of November 1 was substantially higher than a month earlier, and reflects the seasonal shift of workers to winter activities.

OMAHA: A slight increase in labor supply was noted in October with a 6 per cent increase over September. Claims or unemployment insurance were up 15 per cent over the month but were lower than a year ago.

SCOTTSBLUFF: Non-farm labor demand changed little during October, but was 40 per cent better than a year ago. Agricultural demand for the potato harvest was very great with 5,431 persons placed. The record exceeded last year's.

SIDNEY: Labor supply on November 1 was slightly larger than on October 1 and some 75 per cent higher than a year ago. Increase is due to layoff at ordinance depot and gradual growth of community.

McKay Orders Another Study Of Nebraska Mid-State Dist.

GRAND ISLAND, Neb. (P) — Another engineering study of the Nebraska Mid-State Reclamation District has been ordered by Douglas McKay, secretary of the interior, it was learned Tuesday.

The study will be made by the Bureau of Reclamation in collaboration with engineers representing the Kansas City firm of Black and Veatch.

Purpose of the survey, according to a letter from Secretary McKay to J. K. McKinney, secretary of the district, is "to determine and report on the adequacy of design and estimated costs of works to be executed under the district's general plan."

Seek Jan. 1 Completion

The report should be completed, by Jan. 1, 1956, he wrote, "in order to permit such attention as may be required to other factors such as (1) the appropriate allocation of costs to the project's general functions, (2) the justification for federal financing as proposed, and (3) the sufficiency of revenues to assure repayment of the federal loan."

In connection with Secretary McKay's letter, McKinney also has heard from W. A. Dexheimer, commissioner of the Bureau of Reclamation.

Dexheimer suggested an early meeting of the engineers in Grand Island.

A bill is pending in Congress, introduced by Rep. A. L. Miller of Nebraska, for federal financial assistance of the Mid-State for construction of the project.

Blaze Leaves Family Homeless Third Time In 9 Years

OMAHA (U)—For the third time in nine years fire has rendered the Jakes I. Collins family homeless. "I don't know what we're going to do," Collins said Tuesday after an exploding coal stove set a fire which destroyed their home. Collins and his four children were visiting Mrs. Collins at a hospital when the fire broke out.

A kerosene stove exploded in 1946 to destroy another home for the Collins family and in 1950 a faulty oil heater blew up, damaging their home and destroying their furniture and clothing.

The fire at the Collins home in East Omaha was followed by another blaze in the same area which left the 11 members of the George McQuinn family homeless.

Marjorie McQuinn, eldest daughter of the McQuinns said she was washing dishes when she smelled paper burning. Fire from a stove spread to a wall and then through the four rooms of the home. Furniture and clothing were almost destroyed. The fire broke out shortly before noon.

Five Points Said Essential To Good School Program

GRAND ISLAND, Neb. (U)—State Commissioner of Education Freeman Decker set out five points essential, he said, to a rounded school program, in addition to buildings, in his address at a second-day open house program in the new two and a half million dollar Grand Island high school.

The points: a community that wants something better for itself, a good school board, good teachers, co-operation of parents, students with open minds and a desire to learn.

Other speakers included Dr. Earle Johnson, vice chairman of the State Board of Education; Dr. Earle Wiltse, Grand Island school superintendent and High School Principal Noel Lawrence.

Crash Victim's Rites At Grant

SUTHERLAND, Neb. (U)—Funeral services for Mrs. Mark Cartwright, 29, of Grant, who died in a Sutherland hospital of crash injuries, will be held Wednesday in Grant.

She was the mother of four small children.

The one-car accident occurred a mile east of Sutherland on Highway 30. The State Safety Patrol said Mrs. Cartwright's husband was driver of the car which went out of control when a front wheel dropped off the concrete shoulder. The car skidded across the highway and rolled over twice.

Mrs. Cartwright suffered head injuries, a broken pelvis and internal injuries. Her husband was cut and bruised.

Mrs. Cartwright was the state's 274th highway traffic victim of 1955. A year ago at this time there had been 275 highway deaths.

Polio Shot Answers Promised

Doctors who are anxious to begin polio vaccinations under the new federal aid program should receive an answer in a few days from state health officials. Dr. E. A. Rogers, state health director, said there are two factors in the current situation: Scarcity of vaccine and the surprising effectiveness of only one shot of vaccine.

Reports indicate only one shot is from 67 to 90 per cent effective, he explained. In the beginning, two shots were considered necessary to give satisfactory protection. The American Public Health Association in session this week in Kansas City, is expected to make some recommendations in the matter.

Only 40,000 So far, Nebraska has received only 40,000 cc. of vaccine under the new program, out of 300,000 allocated to this state. This would be enough for only 20,000 persons if two shots are given. For this reason, the Health Department has delayed distribution to doctors. If the National Advisory Committee decides on only one shot, some "rescheduling" will be necessary, but distribution can begin sooner, Dr. Rogers said. It appears now, he added, that nobody will receive the full amount of vaccine allocated at the outset of the new program, which is due to end in February unless Congress extends the time.

Honey Producers Meet Thursday

A banquet will be held at Cotner Terrace Friday at 6 p.m. at which a Nebraska Honey Queen will be crowned. Fred Blummer, Arnold, is president of the association and Mrs. DeEtta Bellin, O'Neill, secretary-treasurer.

POSTCARD

About midnight, I went over to the Piazza Vittorio to see the cats. There must have been several hundred in sight. They were bedded down under trees and they didn't move. Just looked at you with that cold cat look.

Some body had fixed a series of wired boxes like a rabbit hutch up the slope, along side a broken Roman ruin. The mother cats went there to have their kittens.

In the daytime, Piazza Vittorio is a market place. But at night in the little square there is nothing but cats.

You can get any number of stories of the cats of Rome. You find them around the Pantheon, too, and they wander by the thousands through the ruins of the Colosseum. In the Piazza Vittorio at midnight, there was one old gentleman with a Guards moustache sitting on the bench. He said the animal rescue service of the city put up the kitten boxes. They also spread the excelsior bedding around the trees.

"Why?" I said.

"Because they are poor beasts. You should come at 6 o'clock in the morning. Then they come around with milk for the cats. All the cats recognize the truck and come running. In the daytime, the people feed them from the market."

***

I talked to another man. He said the cats dated from Roman times and possibly had something to do with worship imported from Egypt. After awhile we went down to the Pantheon. The great stone pillars housed the Roman gods. It is an imposing structure and, along the thick walls and over the ancient pavement the cats come running toward us.

There were two Italian ladies feeding them from a little package.

"Every night," they told me, "people come to feed the cats. There is one little man makes the rounds. He has little packages and he has diets for his favorites. He tells you: 'This has liver for the white one in the Piazza di Spagna. She needs more vitamins. This one is for the Colosseum...'"

***

After awhile we went over to a neon-lighted bar on the square at the Pantheon. We had cappuccini—the heavy black Italian coffee with milk and sprinkled with chocolate.

"Why do people feed the cats?" I asked the barman.

"They are the lonely ones. During the war there were no cats."

"Where did they go?"

"People ate them. Cat is very good. Up in Venice, many households make a specialty of cat. It is a delicacy. A little like hare."

"How do you cook it?"

"It is done hunter style. Cacciatore. It is cut in small pieces and put in a sauce pan with oil, red wine, vinegar and herbs. Simmer one hour and serve."

"But not here?"

"Only during the war. Then all the cats disappeared. They were eaten. When you went to a restaurant and ordered hare, you asked to see the animal before they cooked it. Otherwise you got cat."

"And do people feed cats anywhere else in Italy?"

"No. Only in Rome. In the Pantheon, the Colosseum and the Piazza Vittorio. Sometimes in the smaller forums there are cats to be fed. Here in the Pantheon it is an old, old custom. Until 200 years ago, the Pantheon was a fish market. There were many cats."

"How many cats do you think there are now?"

"Who knows? Thousands and thousands. They belong to nobody. They belong to Rome. They came back after the war. Nobody knows from where."

The cats on the ancient pavement under the ancient pillars crouched like hundreds of small Spinxes in the moonlight. They looked at us with calculating cat looks. Possibly they wondered how I would taste. Hunter style in red wine, oil and vinegar.

CONSUMERS TO DISPLAY A-PLANT MODEL HERE

A model of the type of atomic plant Consumers Public Power District proposes to build in Nebraska will be on display for the benefit of the general public on Nov. 25, 26, 28 and 29, in the Consumers' Lincoln office, 1401 O Street.

This display, occupying an area approximately 20 feet long by 9 feet high, is a scale model of the sodium-graphite reactor plant as developed by North American Aviation Incorporated. An intricate lighting system, incorporated into the model, graphically portrays the processes involved in the transfer of nuclear energy into electric power.

Two representatives of North American will be on hand to answer questions relative to the operation and special features of this particular type of nuclear powered generating plant. Informative booklets have been prepared by Consumers and will be available.

The display will also be featured at the Atomic Institute at the University of Nebraska on Dec. 1 and 2.

As the display is heavily scheduled for future out-state exhibitions, the Consumers and University showings afford the first opportunity for Nebraskans to view the inner workings of a type of nuclear plant which has aroused, not only national, but international scientific interest.

Probe Is Agreed Into Disrupted Rail Contract

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Investigations subcommittee voted Tuesday to explore in public hearings whether Hugh W. Cross, chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission, had any hand in negotiating a disputed railway contract in Chicago.

Chairman McClellan (D-Ark) said he expects the inquiry "into the conduct of a federal official as related to his official duties" may start before the end of the year.

McClellan declined to name Cross specifically after questioning the ICC chairman in a reportedly somewhat stormy session behind closed doors. But Cross himself, a Republican holdover from the Truman administration, made it clear he was the individual concerned.

At issue is a contract negotiated between the Western Passenger Assn., a railroad organization, and Railroad Transfer Service, Inc., of Chicago, owner of a bus line which transports passengers from one to another of the city's six train depots.

Denial

Cross, as he left the hearing room, told reporters "I deny categorically" that the bus line operators had offered him a job. He refused to answer questions as to whether he had discussed "with the railroad people" the negotiations which shifted the passenger transfer contract from A. C. Parmelee Co. of Chicago to the Railroad Transfer Service, which is owned and operated by John L. Keeshin. The shift took place Oct. 1, 1955.

A reporter asked Cross, "Did you receive an offer of a job from Keeshin?" Cross replied that "until the committee gives me permission, my lips, regardless of my welfare, are sealed, but I think you know what my answer would be. It would be definitely no."

He also was asked whether he had received an offer from the Keeshin group relative to "taking you into a bus line" deal.

'No Connection'

"What happened several years ago..." Cross began, then said: "It had no connection. There was a discussion on that, there was a discussion yes, but with Keeshin no."

Cross added "The discussions were on an entirely different matter—it never reached a very serious phase." He declined to elaborate.

McClellan's announcement of a public inquiry followed a day of testimony behind closed doors in which the subcommittee also questioned Keeshin, two railroad presidents and subcommittee staff investigator Don O'Donald. The latter identified some documents which McClellan said were placed in evidence.

McClellan had indicated earlier the investigation might be aimed at determining whether there was a "conflict of interest" on the part of a government official. He refused to name the official.

The two rail executives who testified were Paul E. Feucht, president of the Chicago & Northwestern Railway Co., and Wayne A. Johnston, president of the Illinois Central Railroad Co. Neither would disclose what he told the senators. But each told newsmen he had no part in negotiations which led to the passenger shuttling contract.

$137,207 Asked Over Partnership Pact Of Doctors

A Texas doctor has filed a $137,207 suit in Federal Court here against Dr. S. J. Arrasmith of Grand Island for alleged breach of a partnership agreement.

The plaintiff, Dr. Cortland D. Leigh of Fort Worth, Tex., alleged that the defendant entered an oral partnership agreement with him on Oct. 1, 1953.

On the basis of the alleged agreement, Dr. Leigh said, he moved to Grand Island on Dec. 7, 1953, performed his part of the agreement until Jan. 8, 1954, when the defendant allegedly broke the partnership.

Damages asked included $122,000 as anticipated profits from the partnership, based on Dr. Arrasmith's alleged representation that his practice was grossing $50,000 annually.

Other damages asked by Dr. Leigh include moving expenses from Ft. Worth and for loss of his practice there when he moved to Grand Island.

U.S. Calls For Meet To Consider 18 U.N. Members

Wednesday, November 16, 1955 THE LINCOLN STAR 11

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. — The United States Tuesday called for an early meeting of the U. N. Security Council to consider applications for U. N. membership from 18 countries, including controversial Outer Mongolia.

This sudden move came as nearly two-thirds of the 60 U. N. members lined up behind a Canadian resolution urging admission of all 18 applicants. Diplomats said 35 members were committed and they expected more than the two-thirds to pass the Assembly.

Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., chief U. S. delegate, maintained a public hands-off policy on Outer Mongolia as he requested the council to meet. A U. S. spokesman said the United States will abstain in the council vote on the five Soviet satellites, including Outer Mongolia, and will not veto them. He said Lodge believes Outer Mongolia cannot muster the seven votes needed to pass the council and the 40 needed to go over the Assembly hurdle.

More Sponsors

Paul Martin, Canadian minister of national health and welfare, was conferring with delegates to get more sponsors for the resolution will put before the Special Political Committee. He was optimistic.

While the Americans are exuding confidence that Outer Mongolia cannot get enough votes, the Soviet delegate, V. V. Kuznetsov, was passing the word from Moscow that all five Soviet bloc candidates must get in or none of the 18 will. This is a threat to continue vetoing all applications favored by the West unless all five Soviet candidates get the green light in pre-voting agreements.

Hospital Group Named At Meet

TECUMSEH, Neb. — Residents of Johnson County have organized a committee to lay groundwork for construction of a new hospital.

Verne Pangborn, director of the division of hospitals, Nebraska State Department of Health, told the group Johnson County has a high priority as to need. He said he was sure the county would receive priority consideration if it decides to apply for federal funds.

Pangborn said one advantage of the federal grant program is the consultation and guidance given by the government. Plans are submitted to the government for approval.

The state health official emphasized three factors necessary in making plans. They are: 1) A medical staff of two or three doctors; 2) An active board of trustees; and 3) Active support of the people of the county.

Over 250 persons attended the countywide meeting and adopted the resolution of J. B. Douglas Jr., Tecumseh businessman, to get the project started.

The county now has only one doctor and was left without a hospital when its other doctor moved recently.

Premier Re-Elected

KHARTOUM, Sudan (AP)—Small el Azhari was re-elected Premier by a 49-45 vote in the Sudan House of Representatives. He defeated Mirghani Hamza, nominee of opposition parties who had beaten Azhari in a vote of confidence last Thursday.

Mitzi Collects

HOLLYWOOD (INS) — Screen star Mitzi Gaynor picked up a $16,250 nest egg — her accumulated savings as a minor.

The 24-year-old film beauty took the money out of the hands of Los Angeles County Clerk Harold Ostly. The sum represented 10 per cent of her earnings which had been impounded under a court order issued in 1947, when she was 16.

Man Hurt In Tumble While Chasing Hat

Steven Clough, 81, of 1500 P, took off with a start Tuesday morning when a gust of wind caught his hat and tumbled it down the street.

He was reported in good condition at St. Elizabeth Hospital; though, with bruises on the head and hands.

Motorcycle Officer Tom New-some said Clough fell on the sidewalk between 14th and 15th on P while chasing his hat.

One Polio Shot May Halt Epidemic

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Reporter
KANSAS CITY (AP)—Single shots of Salk polio vaccine for many millions of children might "prevent epidemics next year"—because the vaccine works so well, a government scientist said Tuesday.

Twice as many children could get protection if each received one rather than two shots from available supplies of vaccine, he said. The latest official government report said single shots had reduced paralytic polio by 50 to 80 per cent or better this year.

Evidence
"We now have considerable evidence that one does provide substantial protection," Dr. Alexander D. Langmuir, head of the Communicable Disease Center, Atlanta, Ga., told the American Public Health Assn.

He is directing a special surveillance unit of the Public Health Service collecting facts on vaccine safety and effectiveness.

The latest figures show the vaccine is safe and that "it works. It is awfully good news," Dr. Langmuir said.

Most of the youngsters had received only one shot.

Two Shots Wrong?
"These results raise a serious question—whether the two-dose inoculation procedure is now the most appropriate for the coming months. The supply of vaccine is still limited" with about 25 million doses released for use now.

Dr. Langmuir urged serious consideration whether it might not be wiser to give as many children as possible one shot "in accord with the democratic principle of the greatest good for the greatest number."

This might make so many persons immune that disastrous epidemics could not catch fire and spread as they did this year in Massachusetts and Wisconsin, Dr. Langmuir said.

Rosy Picture
A rosy picture of Salk vaccine effectiveness was spelled out in the official, but still preliminary, report presented by Dr. Langmuir, Dr. Neal Nathanson, and William Jackson Hall, Ph.D., of the surveillance unit.

The unit was set up April 28 after cases of polio were associated with use of vaccine from one manufacturer, Cutter Laboratories, Berkeley, Calif. It's been acting as a clearinghouse for information from the states, from virus laboratories, and its own staff to check out reported cases of polio among vaccinated and non-vaccinated children, to pin down whether the disease was really polio and if it was paralytic.

Highlights of the report: "Tentative results ... reveal that the attack rates for paralytic polio are from two to five times greater in the unvaccinated than the vaccinated children."

About 74% Effective
This would mean 50 to 80 per cent effectiveness, with perhaps an overall average of 74 per cent.

The highest percentages of effectiveness were reported for states which had made the most intensive studies to pin down whether illness first reported to be polio was actually polio or something else. Polio often resembles other illnesses in early stages.

Since mid-May when government safety standards on vaccine were revised "no evidence has come to light that tends to incriminate any lot of vaccine of any manufacturer" released and used.

No Complaint
HOLLYWOOD (INS)—The starlet who tangled with Susan Hayward in a rough-and-tumble battle at the home of actor Don Barry revealed that she will drop her request for a battery complaint against the screen star.

Jill Jarmyn's attorney, Saul Ross, announced that the starlet had decided not to press formal charges against Miss Hayward to avoid giving the famous actress' former husband, actor Jess Barker, grounds for trying to take her children away from her.

Little Sincerity in Peace Talks, Declares Hruska

WASHINGTON (AP)—Russian Foreign Minister Molotov "made it clear here is little sincerity in the peace talk from Moscow" by his stand against unification of Germany, Sen. Hruska (R-Neb) said Tuesday.

This stand forced suspension of the Geneva talks on the key problems of unification and European security. Hruska said the Russian threat to the "spirit of Geneva" is surprising only because it came so quickly and "it attests to the effectiveness of the free world in maintaining its strength and composure in the face of warm smiles from the Kremlin."

"It is significant that Molotov became harshly unpleasant when pressed for free elections in Germany," Hruska asserted in a statement made public at his Washington office. "It betrays Moscow's realization that free balloting would sweep away its puppet rule of East Germany."

Before the Foreign Ministers met at Geneva, Hruska had said, "we will bargain from strength until the Communists either make significant concessions or betray the real intention of their sweet talk."

Fog Blamed
WASHINGTON (INS)—The Civil Aeronautics Board said that dense fog probably obscured the vision of a pilot whose airline crashed at Chicago's Midway Airport last July 17, killing 22 persons. The plane was a Convair 340 on a Braniff Airways flight between Dallas and Chicago. The pilot was among the victims.

Israeli Court Justice Says Armed Egypt 'Mortal Danger'

A justice of the Israel Supreme Court said in Lincoln Tuesday the purchase of arms by Egypt creates a situation of "mortal danger" to the Israeli government.

Justice Moshe Landau, court justice from Jerusalem, said the only present solution for Israel was to purchase arms itself to maintain a position of strength.

Justice Landau addressed the Lincoln Rotary Club Tuesday. Special guests for the day were associate justices of the Nebraska Supreme Court and Judge John Delehant of the U.S. District Court.

"We want peace," Landau said. "We want to sit down with our Arab neighbors to talk peace." The justice said the partitioned countries, separated by petition resolution through an armistice negotiated by the United Nations, is not being followed by Egypt.

The only solution to the present problem, Landau said, is for the substitution of a peace treaty between the two countries.

Landau said agreement still was lacking from the Arab nation on the distribution of the waters of the Jordan River, a pact agreed to by Israel. The justice said of Egypt "They have not learned Israel is a state which is going to stay in their midst, and as soon as that is recognized, peace will come to the Holy Land."

The justice, on a good-will tour of the United States, told the Rotarians, he has tried to "foster international understanding between the United States and Israel." He said the program of immigration into Israel has brought out a number of problems, adding the state's population almost doubled since 1948.

The justice, classed an expert in the land laws of the Middle East, advises the Israeli government on modern land legislation to replace the Ottoman Law. He is one of the governors of the Israel Institute of Technology, and became Supreme Court justice in 1953.

JUSTICE LANDAU ... "We Want Peace"

Justice Landau said the new Israeli government tried to establish a country that protects the basic civil rights of the individual and that their elections are fair and open.

He spoke at a Tuesday night dinner sponsored by B'nai B'rith and was scheduled to speak to the University Law College.

Travel Pay Case For Handicapped Child Is Pending

A motion to dismiss is pending in Lancaster District Court in a suit in which Alfred Schutte of Red Cloud, Neb., seeks reimbursement for transporting his son, Gary, to special classes for handicapped children at Hastings, Neb., 35 miles away.

The state and the school district at Red Cloud share the tuition fee, under a provision of the law which permits the state to put up not to exceed $400 a year toward the cost of instruction.

The motion to dismiss was filed by the attorney general's office in behalf of Commissioner F. B. Decker. A demurrer is scheduled to be filed in behalf of the district. The motion and the demurrer will be argued together.

OMAHA (AP)—A bond forfeiture hearing in the Herbert F. Honey cases has been continued until Friday by District Judge L. Ross Newkirk.

The Douglas County attorney's office has asked that Honey's $2,500 bond on a grocery stickup charge be forfeited. Honey is held by Iowa authorities on other charges.

Attorneys for the bondsman, L. S. (Bob) Cornett, attacked the proposed forfeiture on legal grounds during a hearing Monday.

Dryden Honored

WASHINGTON (AP)—Dr. Hugh L. Dryden, a top expert on guided missiles and supersonic aircraft, was announced Tuesday night as the winner of the Wright brothers memorial trophy for "significant public service of enduring value to aviation."

Dryden, 57, is director of the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics (NACA), the nation's major air research agency.

Dryden was cited particularly for "pioneering work on the measurement of turbulence in wind tunnels and on the mechanics of flow within the boundary layer." The boundary layer is the thin layer of air around and along the wing and tail surfaces of an airplane.

YOU MAY HAVE PIN-WORMS AND NOT KNOW IT!

Fidgeting, nose-picking and a tormenting rectal itch are often tell-tale signs of Pin-Worms ... ugly parasites that medical experts say infect one out of every three persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.

First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then—Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly and easily.

Don't take chances with this dangerous, highly contagious condition. At the first sign of Pin-Worms, ask your druggist for genuine Jayne's P-W Vermifuge ... the small, easy-to-take tablets perfected by famous Dr. D. Jayne & Son, specialists in worm remedies for over 100 years.

CBA PLAN

WASHINGTON (AP)—A former government trustbuster testified Tuesday that conviction of General Motors and other corporations of conspiracy to monopolize sales of buses and supplies to local transit systems had failed to improve competition in that field.

William C. Dixon of Pasadena, Calif., a former antitrust prosecutor from 1944 to 1954, offered this testimony before a Senate Judiciary subcommittee studying the General Motors Corp.

Dixon, who handled the antitrust action, said GM and other suppliers "foreclosed competition" in part of the bus transit field for 10 years prior to 1947 and then used another eight years in federal courts battling the criminal and civil charges.

Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo), presiding, asked Dixon if the lengthy court actions had brought competition into the field of supplying buses, tires and petroleum products to transit systems.

Dixon replied that he doubted this because in his home city of Pasadena and in Los Angeles, the transit systems involved in the antitrust cases still operate GM buses after 18 years of little competition.

O'Mahoney said this was a typical example of why existing federal antimonopoly laws need strengthening. Dixon said the antitrust case involved National City Lines, Inc., a holding company that bought up and operated transit systems in many parts of the country. He said it usually replaced street cars with buses.

Agreed To Buy

He said these local transit systems agreed to buy 85 per cent of their equipment and other supplies from General Motors and other corporations, which put up funds with National City Lines to acquire control of the local systems.

In some California cities, Dixon said, the bus sales were to have been divided equally between GM and the Mack Manufacturing Corp.

Dixon said the criminal and civil actions were brought in federal courts in Southern California in 1947 but that actual trials were shifted to Chicago over protests of government attorneys.

He said GM and other corporate defendants were found guilty under the criminal action in 1949 and fined $5,000 each after carrying appeals to the Supreme Court.

He said the accompanying civil antitrust decree was not completed until late last year, or eight years after the criminal indictment.

By the time the case was finally concluded, Dixon said, GM had sold out its shares in the transit holding company and most of the questioned contracts had expired.

Dixon said that officials of the corporations were fined only $1, probably on the theory they had to carry out orders of higher executives or lose their jobs.

O'Mahoney asked the former prosecutor if the antitrust actions had brought the expected relief to the national economy.

Dixon hesitated, smiled and then ventured the opinion that five years from now the transit companies involved still will be buying most of their buses from General Motors.

A LITTLE OF EVERYTHING

THERE'S a little of everything in the news this morning—For instance we have a wedding date for Miss Agnes Anderson and David Olson—it is Saturday evening, Feb. 4, and the ceremony will be solemnized at 8 o'clock at the Westminster Presbyterian Church.

Miss Anderson, as you know, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Anderson—Gamma Phi Beta at the University of Nebraska—and a Countess in the 1954 Court of Ak-Sar-Ben. Mr. Olson, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Olson, will be graduated in January from the University of Nebraska where he is a member of Delta Tau Delta fraternity.

AND while on the subject of brides-elect—This morning Mrs. William Rotton will be a coffee hostess at her home when she entertains in pre-nuptial courtesy to Miss Judy Flansburg whose marriage to Robert Burton will be solemnized on Dec. 17. The guest list will include the members of the bridge club to which the bride-elect's mother, Mrs. Harry E. Flansburg, and the hostess belong. Miss Flansburg will be presented with a kitchen shower.

ON Tuesday evening Miss Flansburg was complimented by Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Minier and Mr. and Mrs. Norman Walt who were dinner hosts and hostesses at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Minier. Only members of the family were included in the guest list.

JUST flipped some pages in our little red book and learned that on Saturday evening Mr. and Mrs. Charles Carper and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Cather will be hosts and hostesses at an hors d'oeuvres party, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Cather, and dinner when they entertain in honor of the wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Carl London.

BUT back to the current dawn—to tell you that Dr. and Mrs. F. J. Hodges of Ann Arbor, Mich., arrived in Lincoln Tuesday evening to spend a day or two as the house guests of Dr. and Mrs. J. Marshall Neely.

Dr. Hodges, incidentally, was the guest speaker at the Lancaster County Medical Association meeting on Tuesday evening.

We Hear That

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Shiebert arrived from Liverpool, England on Saturday to make their home in Lincoln. Temporarily Mr. and Mrs. Shiebert are the guests of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. William Green. Their son, Stanley Shiebert, is a student at the University of Nebraska.

Acheson Claims GOP Too Divided, Hidebound

... His Book Just Published

WASHINGTON (AP)—Former Secretary of State Dean Acheson, in a book to be published Wednesday pictures the Republican party as too divided, too hidebound and too closely wedded to big business to work with long-range effectiveness for world peace.

By contrast Acheson's book, "A Democrat Looks at His Party," portrays the Democrats as having "superior" unity, imagination and popular backing to conduct a foreign policy commanding the trust of this country's allies overseas.

Acheson was a leading target of the Republicans when he served as President Harry Truman's secretary of state from 1949 until 1953. He hits back, and with gloves off, in this first full-length statement of his position since he left office and went into private law practice. The book is published by Harper & Bros.

Acheson says the United States must work and sacrifice to attain peace—to avert "a desperate death struggle" waged with atomic weapons. He questions whether the Eisenhower administration isn't more concerned with cutting taxes and trying to balance the budget than with carrying out the often expensive programs he regards as necessary to establish a basis for peace.

GOP Wounds Unhealed

Acheson also says there is a powerful undercurrent of isolationism in the Republican party and that President Eisenhower's 1952 victory "was not achieved without inflicting wounds that are still unhealed."

"The dissident faction of the party," he says, "is compact, articulate and often ruthless. In the Senate, for instance, this wing of the party is probably the stronger. It certainly is on matters of economic foreign policy . . ."

Farm Bureau Speaker Lauds Bi-Partisan Ag Legislation

The United States "never has had good agricultural legislation that didn't have the support of both Democrats and Republicans," a State Farm Bureau speaker said here Tuesday.

He was R. Flake Shaw, executive vice president of the North Carolina Farm Bureau, who spoke at the banquet which closed the convention.

"If you give the farmers the facts," Shaw said, "they will want to do the right thing about a farm program—one which is not just good for them, but best for the whole country."

But the record shows, he said, that people either don't know the facts or are trying to mislead the general public on the broad aspects of the farm problem.

Farms Most Important

The small percentage of people on the farms are the "most important part of the U.S. economy," he said.

"We can't operate today without some kind of national farm program adjusted to present conditions," he said, "any more than we could do away with the stop lights in New York City."

"We must try to foresee the consequences of the drastic change that has taken place in the world the past five years in order to adjust to the change," Shaw said.

The "drastic change," he said, applies not only to agriculture but to industry as well.

U. S. Failure

Among the farm problems Shaw cited was failure of the U.S. to meet competition in both price and quality in the world market.

A national farm program, he said, also must take into consideration the way commodities differ in storage required, distance to markets and elasticity of price and of demand.

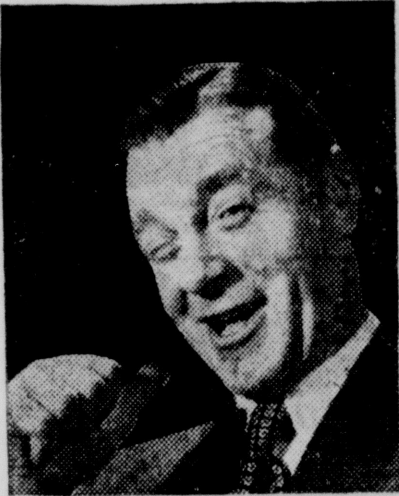

Surpluses "are not too serious in my book," Shaw said, "for I'd rather see too much than not enough."

Shaw had been administrative head of the North Carolina Farm Bureau since 1940. Its membership in that time increased from 1,700 to 71,000.

Registration Largest

Registration at the Nebraska Farm Bureau convention was more than 700, largest official reg-

"Bright girl, my Betsy!"

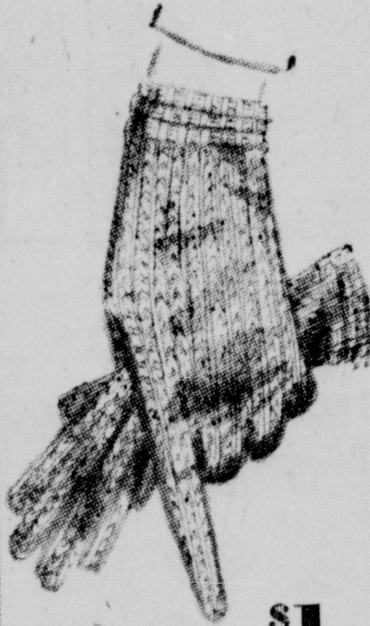

I just can't get over the marvelous way my Betsy outsmarts her housework. For instance, I hear other wives complain about how often they have to wax their floors. But not my Betsy! She uses new, hard lustre Bruce Self-Polishing Wax. It dries to a sparkling hard finish that wears like iron. I know for a fact that Betsy doesn't wax them any more than once every six weeks. Yet they always look freshly waxed. My Betsy and her new Bruce Self-Polishing Wax sure make small work of a big job. I'm mighty proud of both of them.

P.S. You're the boss, gal! New Bruce Self-Polishing Wax must outshine, outlast all others—or money back!

Anderson Hopes To Outline Highway Commission Sphere Of Influence

Gov. Anderson said Tuesday he hopes by the next meeting of the Highway Commission Nov. 28 to be ready to say in what fields he would accept the Commission's recommendations "if they have given a fair hearing."

"Even if it would be contrary to my own thinking, I believe there are instances where I would accept the Commission's recommendations if it had given a fair public hearing to the various groups," the governor commented.

He said the Commission can give more time, and give its undivided attention, to a highway matter than the governor can.

The Commission, set up by the Legislature in 1953, is advisory only.

If the Legislature had attempted to set up a Commission with executive authority, all members would have been required to be residents of Lincoln, under a limitation imposed by the state Constitution.

In the attempt to set up a Commission with statewide representation, the Legislature provided that the group should be only an advisory body.

Under these circumstances, a delegation appearing before the Commission is left with the feeling it must also go before the governor with its appeal, Anderson explained.

With this situation in mind, he hopes to settle on some areas of activity where the hearing given by the Commission would be "final" with the governor accepting the Commission's recommendations.

'Obscene' Papers In Pocras Case Named By City

A bill of particulars filed in Municipal Court Tuesday set out the names of three publications objected to by the city as "obscene, lewd, and indecent."

The order for the particulars was handed down by Judge John Jacobson on Oct. 29 at the request of Frederick Wagener, attorney for Oliver Pocras, doing business as the Lincoln News Agency.

Pocras had pleaded not guilty to a charge under the 1936 law prohibiting the sale or distribution of publications classed as obscene, lewd, or indecent.

In its brief filed Tuesday afternoon, City Prosecutor Tom Gorham named the "Cabaret Magazine," issue of October, 1955; "Figure Magazine," Volume 9 Quarterly, and "How To Take Glamour Photos Magazine," a Fawcett "How-To Book 235."

No date was set for hearing on the bill of particulars.

Big Guard Back In Lineup

Guard Jim Murphy, who suffered a broken leg in a practice prior to the Kansas State game, will be ready to play again Saturday against Oklahoma.

Guard Jim Murphy Rejoins Huskers

Taylor Acting Captain, All Seniors Co-Captains

By DON BRYANT
Sports Editor, The Star

Guard Jim Murphy of Columbus Tuesday rejoined the University of Nebraska football team, currently preparing for the invasion of the Oklahoma Sooners—America's No. 1 college football team.

Murphy, a junior letterman and a starter in the Hawaii and Ohio State games, suffered a broken leg shortly before the Kansas State contest and has been out of action since.

He's been running for a week and Tuesday got an okay from the university doctors to play against Oklahoma.

Coach Bill Glassford, in making the announcement said that Murphy definitely will not start against the Sooners.

"But he's been okayed for duty and should help us," Bill said. It's likely that Murphy will be listed on the third lineup since he has missed so much practice.

The first team guards are Soph Don Kampe and Senior Bill Taylor. Backing them up are Sophs, Jerry Brown and Leo George.

Murphy's return to action leaves only two Huskers on the sick list—the best condition the squad's been in for many weeks. End Marlin Hilding is definitely out of the Sooner game because of a bad back.

Halfback Sylvester Harris, who suffered a dislocated shoulder against Iowa State, has been working and insists he'll be ready for Oklahoma, but Glassford said Tuesday that Syl "must be listed as questionable."

Taylor, 177-pound guard who has been one of the Huskers' real workhorses and a line leader, was named as the "acting captain" for the Oklahoma game. But Glassford said "all 10 of our seniors will be captains and will take the toss."

The seniors who will serve as "co-captains" in their final appearance as Cornhusker griders are: End Jack Braley of Miles City, Mont.; Fullback John Edwards of North Platte; Halfback Rex Fischer of Oakland; Halfback Sylvester Harris of Kansas City, Mo.; End Dean Lux of North Bend; End Jon McWilliams of Sidney; Tackle Richard Moore of Cedar Rapids, Ia.; Guard Bill Taylor of North Platte; and Center Doran Post of Shelton.

Review Drills

Tuesday the Cornhuskers worked on pass defense and reviewed their defenses and offense for the Sooners.

"It was a tight session on fundamentals," Glassford said.

Sodak Scout

University of South Dakota football coach Ray Gamage will scout Nebraska against the Sooners. The Huskers open their 1956 season at home against the Sodaks.

Battle Looms

Saturday's contest between Oklahoma and Nebraska will pit two of the Big Seven's finest backs against each other—Rex Fischer of Nebraska and Tom McDonald of Oklahoma.

Fischer leads the conference in rushing with 592 yards in 119 carries, the eleventh spot in the national rankings. McDonald is next in conference play with 550 yards on 76 tries.

McDonald also is the leading league scorer with 84 points (14 touchdowns), while Don Erway of Nebraska is second (6 touchdowns, 10 PATs and 3 field goals). Bobby Reynolds of Nebraska still holds the Big Seven scoring record with the 104 points he registered in loop games during the 1950 season.

Although playing one less game to date than Nebraska, Oklahoma is the nation's No. 1 team in the rushing offense department, with an average of 321.8 yards per game. The Sooners are second in offense (run, pass) with an average of 398.4. Defensively, the Big Red runs eighth in the country, holding eight opponents to an average of 190.6, about 50 yards less than the Huskers' nine-game offensive average of 243.6.

Nebraska is third in the nation in pass defense, holding nine foes to an average of 45.6 yards per game.

Tar Heels Say Sooners Best Team

CHAPFL HILL, N. C. (AP)—Oklahoma has a better football team than Maryland. That's the opinion of 10 of 12 players on the University of North Carolina eleven which suffered defeat at the hands of both the teams which will meet in the Orange Bowl next Jan. 2.

In a poll of a dozen key members of the Tar Heel squad, this seemed to be the consensus:

The Oklahoma line is quicker and just as strong, Oklahoma's backfield is better overall, but Maryland has the better quarterback in Frank Tamburello and Lynn Beightol. Oklahoma's pass defense is better and the Oklahoma offense is more powerful and versatile. Maryland has more outstanding individuals, but this is outweighed by Oklahoma's team effort.

Two Picked Maryland

One of the two who picked Maryland as the better was veteran halfback Ken Keller.

"Oklahoma is chiefly an offensive team and Maryland combines both offense and defense," he said. "I think Maryland's combined attack will win."

"I'd say that Oklahoma is the better club," said guard Bill Korman. "But you have to point out that they're two different types of teams. . . . It ought to be a very good game."

Quarterback Dave Reed observed that "the backfields of the two teams are about even, but Oklahoma has better overall speed."

Better Team Effort

"Maryland probably has more outstanding individuals," said guard Jack Lineberger, "but I think Oklahoma has the better team effort. They are both good."

The result of the poll was surprising in that Maryland whipped the Tar Heels by a wider margin than Oklahoma did, Maryland won its game with North Carolina, 25-7, and Oklahoma scored a 13-6 victory.

North Carolina's Coach George Barclay says the two teams cannot be compared because "they don't play the same kind of football" and have different types of offense and defense.

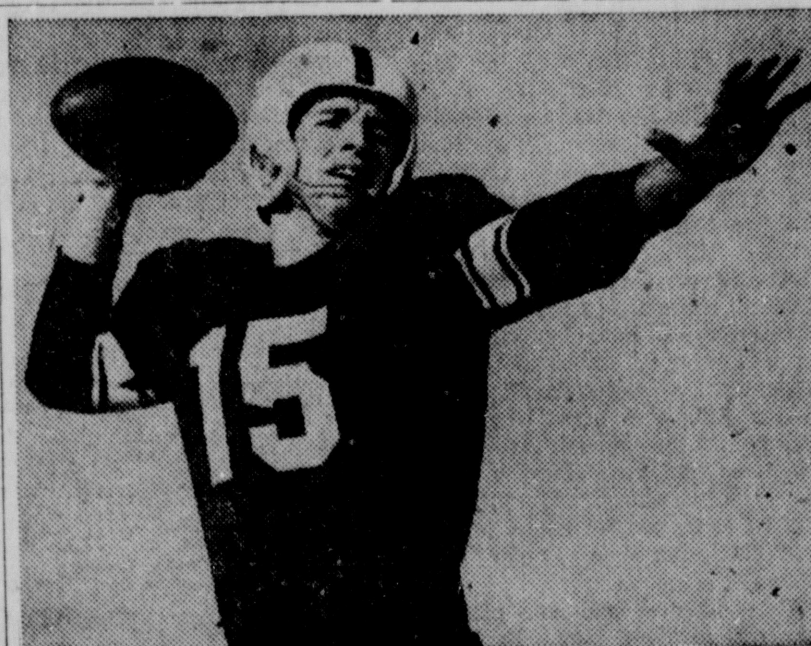

Oklahoma plays a control type of game and Maryland tries to combine both a good offense and a strong defense, he said.

Undeclared Team Declines Bowl Bids

ALFRED, N.Y. (AP)—Alfred University has declined to consider playing in the Refrigerator Bowl and will not accept any football bowl bid, athletic officials said Tuesday.

Undeclared Alfred wound up the season Saturday with a 6-0 victory over Hobart.

Alfred had a "feeler" from the Refrigerator Bowl, to be played Dec. 4 at Evansville, Ind. But officials feel accepting a bowl bid would over-emphasize its football program by cutting into the winter sports season and the academic schedule.

Three Important Games Ahead

Senior Jimmy Harris, first string quarterback for the Oklahoma Sooners, has three important games left in his college career. After the final Big Seven game against Nebraska Saturday Harris will lead the Sooners against traditional foe Oklahoma A & M the following Saturday, and on New Year's Day will general the Oklahoma Sooners against Maryland in the Orange Bowl.

ACC Makes It Official: Terps To Meet Sooners

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—Maryland was voted into Miami's Orange Bowl football game Tuesday but if Jim Tatum's Terps fumble the ball around like he did the announcement they'll never beat Oklahoma.

Oklahoma is No. 1 in the weekly Associated Press poll to determine the nation's best college football team. Maryland is No. 2.

Oklahoma upset Maryland 7-0 in the 1954 Orange Bowl game after the Terrapins had an unbeaten season and held the mythical national championship.

Tatum has been itching for another shot at the Sooners and Bud Wilkinson, who was his assistant before he moved from Oklahoma to Maryland in 1947 and since has compiled a better record than his old boss.

The votes were being rounded up in a poll of Atlantic Coast Conference schools on its Orange Bowl designate when Tatum went into his weekly conference with sports writers Tuesday.

Maryland, he was happy to say, had been unanimously selected to represent the conference in the bowl. He signalled Joe Blair, his publicity man, to make the formal announcement.

"Maryland has accepted the invitation to the Orange Bowl," Blair announced.

"I didn't say that," said Tatum. "I said 'selected.' We haven't accepted yet." He explained the final decision was up to the university's administration. He said he didn't want what he said to be construed as meaning Maryland would not accept. He said it was apparent Maryland's athletic council was in favor.

At the same time, Jim Weaver, commissioner of the conference, announced from his office at Greensboro, N.C., that Maryland had been selected and had accepted.

Weaver Taken Aback
Tatum's "We haven't accepted yet" took Weaver aback. "I talked with Tatum and Dean Geary F. Eppley, Maryland faculty athletic chairman," said

Lovellette Leads Pros

NEW YORK (AP)—Big Clyde Lovellette of Minneapolis, who finished eighth among scoring leaders last year, is the No. 1 point-maker in the National Basketball Assn. after the first week's action.

The 6-9 Laker center scored 121 points in six games through Sunday's games. Maurice Stokes, spectacular rookie of the Rochester Royals, is in second place with 107 points in five games.

Paul Arizin of Philadelphia is third with 103 points in four games. He has the single-game high of the young season, a 34-point spree against Minneapolis, Nov. 12. The Warriors' Neil Johnston, scoring champion of the last three years, is in fourth place with 85 points in four games.

Bob Pettit of St. Louis has racked up 53 points in two starts to lead in averages with a 26.5 output. Six others, including Arizin (25.8), Boston's Ed Macauley (21.7), Stokes (21.4), Johnston (21.3), St. Louis' Frank Selvy (20.5) and Lovellette (20.2), are in the 20-point average class.

Stokes leads in rebounds with 91 to 70 for second-place Lovellette.

Detroit's Kaline Picked Top Sophomore in AL

By JOE REICHLER
NEW YORK (AP) — Al Kaline, brilliant outfielder of the Detroit Tigers who led the American League in batting last season, was voted the junior circuit's Sophomore of the Year Tuesday by members of the Baseball Writers' Assn. of America.

The 20-year-old slugger, youngest batting champion since Ty Cobb paced the American League back in 1907, won the honor in a landslide vote, as expected. Of the 99 major league writers who cast ballots in the annual Associated Press poll, 91 voted for the Baltimore native who signed with the Tigers for a $35,000 bonus following his graduation from high school.

Four other second-year players received mention. Ray Narleski, Cleveland's right-handed bullpen ace, received 3 votes, first baseman Vic Power of Kansas City and righthander Fank Sullivan of Boston got 2 each and infielder Jim Finigan of Kansas City got 1.

Narleski saw service in 60 games, all but 1 in relief, won 9 out of 10 decisions and saved a flock of other games for the Indians. Power was the league's second leading hitter with a .319 mark, swatted 19 home runs and drive in 75 runs. Sullivan won 18 games, lost 13, and tied for the most victories in the circuit. Finigan batted .263 but shone defensively at second and third. He also drove in 68 runs.

None of these, however, posed a serious threat to Kaline. The fleet-footed youngster with the accurate arm and powerful wrists enjoyed the most promising sophomore season since Ted Williams and Stan Musial were at similar stages in their careers. He not only led both majors with his .340 batting average but was the only big leaguer to collect 200 hits. He proved his power by bashing 27 home runs and driving in 102 runs.

The trim, right-handed Kaline is the big reason why the Tigers showed so much improvement last year although they couldn't better their fifth-place finish of a year ago. Detroit finished with a season percentage of over .500 and for a time, seemed to have designs on the pennant. This prompted Casey Stengel, manager of the New York Yankees, to crack: "This is a league with five first-division clubs."

A quiet, serious-minded lad, Kaline joined the Tigers in the summer of 1953 but saw so little serv-

Second Place In Total Gain To Oklahoma

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Oklahoma, rated the country's No. 1 college football team by the experts, is only No. 2 when it comes to ground-gaining.

The Sooners, whose unbeaten string of 27 is the nation's longest, trail West Virginia's Mountaineers by 8 yards a game in the ground-gaining department, statistics compiled by the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau showed Tuesday.

The Southern Conference team, stopped by Pittsburgh last weekend, is tops with an average of 406.6 yards for each of its eight games. Oklahoma is second with 398.4 and Denver third at 389.7 yards.

West Virginia, which had trouble with George Washington a week ago before bowing to Pittsburgh, has seen its average tumble from 450 two weeks ago. It plays Syracuse next and its national lead definitely is in danger.

The Sooners have climbed into the runner-up spot on the running ability of their backs. The Big 7 conference stars, already designated as the loop's Orange Bowl team, have averaged 5 yards on each of their 504 cracks into the opposing lines for an average of 321.6 yards a game. Texas Christian is next at 297. West Virginia is No. 6 at 265.9.

Oklahoma isn't anywhere among the leaders in passing, a department headed by Navy's 186.3 yards a game. West Virginia is No. 7 in this phase of offense with 140.8 yards. Hardin-Simmons, coached this year by Sammy Baugh of pro football passing fame, is Navy's closest rival in the aerial department, 163.9 yards, while Denver, No. 14 in rushing, is third in passing with 159.8.

Lesser Grid Powers Due For Shakeup

By MURRAY ROSE
The Associated Press
Oklahoma, Maryland and Michigan State still are running 1-2-3 in The Associated Press' football poll and figure to stay up there after Saturday's play. There could be plenty of changes, however, in the ratings below the top trio.

Oklahoma is a 26-point favorite to beat Nebraska for the Big 7 crown at Lincoln and run its victory streak to 28. Maryland is the 27-point choice over George Washington and Michigan State, hoping to move into the Rose Bowl, is about the same over Marquette.

Notre Dame, fourth in the rankings, fifth-place UCLA, and sixth-place Michigan, run into trouble. All could lose without causing any shock to the onlookers.

Aggravation For Irish
The Fighting Irish are rated 10 points over Iowa but the Hawkeyes always spell aggravation to the men from South Bend. UCLA is a 10-point choice over Southern California in the big battle on the coast where the Bruins are aiming to seal a berth in the Rose Bowl. Michigan is given just a six-point edge over Ohio State at Ann Arbor. The Big 10 crown as well as the Rose Bowl spot is at stake in this climactic contest.

A victory by Ohio State would send Michigan State to Pasadena since the Buckeyes are ineligible to repeat their 1955 journey to the Rose Bowl.

Texas Christian is ranked seventh followed by Texas A&M.

Omaha U. Ready For Bid To Bowl

OMAHA (AP)—The University of Omaha Athletic board made plans Tuesday for a speedy action in case O. U. does get a post-season football bowl bid.

Omaha, 1955 Tangerine Bowl entry, wound up this season with an 8-1 record and has been mentioned in connection with both the Tangerine Bowl at Orlando, Fla., and the Sun Bowl at El Paso.

The committee emphasized that no bowl bid has been received as yet, but its action Tuesday was to make possible speedy consideration in case such a bid is received.

The committee decided to recommend to the administration that only National Collegiate Athletic Assn., certified bowls be considered and that a bid be considered only if it will "pay the freight."

The priority recommended for the trip would be: first players, coaches and staff, the players being the regular traveling roster of players. Other players who suit up for home games, would be considered as spectators.

Relaxation Of TV Rules Requested

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa (AP)—A direct request to the chairman of the National Collegiate Athletic Assn. for relaxation of its rules on televising of college football games was announced Tuesday night.

William B. Quarton, general manager of station WMT-TV, Cedar Rapids, said he had telegraphed the request to Asa S. Bushnell at the Baltimore Hotel in New York City.

Quarton told Bushnell he understood that Douglas Mills, the Big 10 district member of the NCAA television committee was recommending that WMT-TV be allowed to carry the Iowa-Notre Dame football game Saturday at South Bend, Ind. Then he added:

"We appreciate this privilege but lines and pickup costs are prohibitive for just one station. Because there are no other games in the state and because the NCAA game on the national hookup is on the West Coast and does not start until 3:30 p.m. Iowa time, we are hopeful that these unusual circumstances will prompt NCAA to grant us permission to carry the Notre Dame-Iowa Game over the other three CBS stations in Iowa."

Quarton asked "prompt consideration" because "several days are necessary to arrange the hookup."

The NCAA thus far has given no indication that it intends to relax its rule to permit WMT-TV to feed the game to other stations.

Giant 'Pottie' Held To Draw

LONDON (AP) — Ewart Potgieter, 7-2, South African heavyweight who moves around the ring like a clumsy bear, got only a draw in a 10-rounder, against 6-5 Canadian James Parker Tuesday night.

A roar of laughter welled up from the 12,000 spectators when the referee, Capt. Charles Davidson, lifted the arms of the 325½-pound goliath and Parker.

Parker looked like a welterweight beside his huge opponent, although the Canadian weighed 225 pounds.

The Associated Press card gave Parker seven rounds to three for "Pottie."

This one was a big test for Potgieter, who had mauled nine foes as a pro without once being extended to the distance. All of Pottie's victims, however, were obscure individuals.

Parker, while no terror, was the best the South African had met and went into the fight at his heaviest weight yet. The Canadian had only three other pro bouts in the past two years, however, and he was 1-1-1 for the trio.

NU Frosh Cage Squad Cut To 30

The University of Nebraska freshman basketball squad, now numbering 30, is staging daily practice sessions under the direction of Coach W. D. (Tony) Sharpe.

Thirty candidates survived the initial squad cut. Seven members of the 1955 squad are out-staters with Ohio contributing three, two are from Iowa and one each from Pennsylvania and Wyoming.

Eastern Nebraska Loop Names Stars

PAPILLION — The three top teams in the Eastern Nebraska Conference divided honors equally in the loop's all-conference six-man football team, chosen by the coaches of the member schools.

Champion Elkhorn contributed back Lowell Houchin, the lone repeater, and end Bob Plambeck. Runnerup Papillion landed end Don Haug and back Don Whitted, the only junior to be honored.

Gretna filled out the team with center Gene Hedges and back Jack Schram.

Honorable mention ratings went to Harris Moore, Benny Spooner and Ed Gates, Papillion; Leroy Dohse, Stu Mowinkel, Lon Ehlers, George Plambeck, Paul Hensley, Millard; John Housley, Arlo Jensen, Dennis Nelson, Harold Johns, Fred Gordon, Elkhorn; and Russ Snodgrass and Bill Heger, Gretna.

Grid Deaths Down
CHICAGO (AP) — High school football fatalities so far this season are about half the number in 1954, a survey by the National Federation of State High School Athletic Assns. shows.

The rate of gridiron deaths is less than one per 100,000 participants, according to the survey. The number of deaths in the past has run about 1.5 per 100,000 in prep football and slightly higher for college play.

AL 'Manager Of Year' Honors To Boston's Pinky Higgins

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP)—Mike (Pinky) Higgins, freshman manager of the fourth-place Boston Red Sox, was voted Tuesday American League "Manager-of-the-Year" by The Associated Press, winning the award in a close race with Casey Stengel.

The big, soft-spoken Texan, who more than made good his two promises—"We won't finish 42 games behind the pennant winner again" and "We won't lose 20 out of 22 to Cleveland"—nosed out the New York Yankees' pennant-winning manager by four votes.

Of the 99 members of the Baseball Writers' Assn. of America who participated in the AP poll, 39 voted for Higgins and 35 for Stengel. Walter Alton, only Brooklyn manager to win a world championship, won the National League award.

Four Others Named
Four other AL managers received recognition. Marty Marion, who had the "dark horse" Chicago White Sox in contention all the way before they finally finished third, picked up 16 votes to finish third in the balloting, too. Lou Boudreau, who surprised by piloting his ragtag Kansas City Athletics into sixth place, got four votes.

The remaining four ballots were divided evenly between Bucky Harris and Al Lopez. Harris, oldest manager in point of service, did an outstanding job bringing his Detroit Tigers into fifth place. Lopez, one of the ablest managers in baseball, led his Cleveland Indians into second place and for the fifth straight season, bagged over 90 victories.

This marked the first time since the AP managerial poll was inaugurated 10 years ago that a fourth-place manager won the award. Admittedly no genius, the 46-year-old Higgins credits his success to infinite patience and understanding the problems of his players.

Improve Record
The Red Sox didn't improve their position last season but under Higgins' able direction they won 15 games more than they did in 1954 and, from the time they got rolling in June until the last month of the season, they were right in the middle of the pennant race.

The Red Sox players themselves will tell you that Mike was a prominent factor in their upsurge.

"More than anybody else, Higgins was the one man who made us into a winning club," said Frank Sullivan, the club's leading pitcher. "He gave us the feeling he knew we were big leaguers. He believed in us and he didn't blast us if we made a mistake."

By having faith in players who weren't setting the world on fire, Higgins gave them faith in themselves. By struggling along quietly without attempting to offer excuses for the team's early poor showing when it was sorely beset with injuries, he developed an enthusiastic following among Boston fans and writers. His sympathetic approach to his players' problems had every member of the Red Sox pulling for him . . . and giving him their best efforts.

Spieser, Young Meet In TV Battle Tonight

CHICAGO (AP) — College-educated Chuck Spieser and veteran Paddy Young, graduate from the school of hard knocks, put up their dukes tonight in a 10-round light-heavyweight scrap at Chicago Stadium.

Spieser, at 26, is only a year younger than his slugging opponent in the nationally televised (ABC-10 p.m. CST) bout, but Paddy has been working at his trade since 1946 and has had 63 fights. The son of a New York stevedore has won 49 of them, lost 11 and drew in 3. He has scored 24 knockouts.

Young, a forceful body puncher who long was a highly rated middleweight, dropped a 10-round decision in his last start Oct. 3, to Willie Pastrano, the "picture fighter" at New Orleans.

Spieser former NCAA and U.S. Olympic standout while at Michigan State, has won the No. 9 spot in light-heavyweight ranks in six bouts since receiving his discharge as a lieutenant in the Army Air Corps. He won five of them by kayoes, stopping Willie Troy in five rounds Sept. 30, his last time out. His only loss in this span was a close decision to Pastrano.

Spieser, a rugged, willing mixer, has a total of only 19 fights, winning 16, 10 by knockouts.

He is a member of the stable managed by Hector Knowles, the Chicago businessman who discovered Chuck Davey.

Elmwood Stars On Cass County Team

AVOCA — Elmwood, winner of the Cass County Conference with four wins and no losses, placed two men on the All-Conference six-man team. The four other spots were shared by players from Alvo, Eagle, Nehawka and Union.

The All-Conference team: Ronald Abrams and Duane Ahrens, Ray Hoover, Eagle; Ned Snyder, Nehawka, and Larry Cook, Union.

Honorable mention: Robert Hall and Dale Lannin, Elmwood; Dale Roelofs, Alvo, and Robert Atterberry, Union.

Some Wheat Perks Up But Most Is Still Getting Worse

Last week's rain and snow in the Panhandle and some southwestern counties gave a shot in the arm to wheat but the over-all condition continues to get worse, government crop observers reported Tuesday.

Precipitation ranged from moderate to quite substantial in the southern half of the Panhandle and extended into Keith, Perkins and Lincoln Counties in southwestern Nebraska, according to the state-federal division of agricultural statistics.

Subsoil moisture, although not as deep as desired in southern and central Nebraska, has been adequate so far but most of the state is dry and badly in need of moisture, the crop report said.

Some wheat in southern and central counties is turning yellowish but the condition may be better than it appears, the report suggested. Lack of surface moisture since September has caused wheat to be deep rooted. But moisture is needed to pack the soil around the plants for protection against cold and wind.

The corn harvest generally has been completed. Some counties report moderate to heavy dropping of ears but such losses are being recovered by pasturing. Corn continues to be shipped into the state to meet local shortages.

Some sugar beets still awaited harvest by last weekend. Yields have been good and the crop is averaging a ton higher in yield per acre than was expected a month earlier.

Some grain sorghums continued to be combined last week but much of the crop this year was not worth harvesting.

Farm sales are occurring in some counties and an increasing number of farmers are seeking outside jobs the report said.

Favorable fall weather has saved the feed supply for livestock and some farmers are selling hay instead of feeding cattle.

Moisture reported during the week included:

Burlington	11	Imperial	85
North Platte	41	Scottsbluff	89
Valentine	63	Sidney	91
Chadron	19

Farm Worker Demand Reported At Low Ebb

Demand for farm workers in Nebraska is "at a very low ebb," the state labor department reported Tuesday.

Only 88 placements were made on Nebraska farms last week.

A Special Message to Dentists about Crest Toothpaste

Here are the answers to some of the questions you may be asked concerning Crest Toothpaste with Fluoristan. Here, too, is the story of Fluoristan—its discovery and its significance.

Q. Why is Crest Toothpaste different from all other toothpastes?

A. Crest with Fluoristan works on an entirely new principle of decay-prevention never before available in any other toothpaste. It is not just another toothpaste with a "new ingredient."

Up to now, all other toothpastes have achieved some degree of decay-prevention by putting a temporary coating, or "wall," on the tooth—or they have tried to lower the bacteria count in the mouth.

Crest, however, begins to form a new molecular combination with the tooth enamel from the very first brushing. It makes the tooth itself resist decay in much the same way that stainless steel resists rusting.

The beneficial effects of Crest start with the very first brushing—and continued use results in lasting protection.

Q. Is Fluoristan the same as the fluoride that is famous for preventing decay when present in drinking water?

A. Fluoristan, found only in Crest, is chemically related to the fluoride in drinking water (officially endorsed by the American Medical Association, United States Public Health Service, American Dental Association, and American Pharmaceutical Association).

However, Fluoristan has been proved to be far more effective in a toothpaste than any other fluoride compound—including sodium fluoride, which is primarily intended for use in water fluoridation. The reason is that, unlike other fluoride compounds, Fluoristan was developed specifically for use in a toothpaste. It has been exhaustively tested and proved in Crest Toothpaste, in research conducted at leading universities under Procter & Gamble grants.

Fluoristan is effective on all permanent teeth, on contact—for adults as well as for children, six and over. On the other hand, it is generally recognized that fluoride in drinking water must be consumed regularly during the first 12 years of life if it is to provide maximum protection against decay.

Q. Why hadn't fluoride been used in a toothpaste before?

A. Up to now, no way had been discovered to put fluoride in a toothpaste and make it effective against tooth decay. Merely adding the ordinary forms of fluoride to a toothpaste formula had no beneficial effect. It became apparent that a new combination of ingredients was necessary. This combination was discovered in Fluoristan—a combination of stannous fluoride and other ingredients, Procter & Gamble's exclusive formula.

Q. What evidence is there of Crest's effectiveness?

A. Crest's developmental and testing program has been the greatest and most thorough in the history of dentifrice research. The methodology employed and results achieved by Crest are documented in scientific publications (see partial bibliography below). Long years of research preceded Crest's discovery—and many thousands of experiments have been made with Crest since its development. Exhaustive tests, examinations, and studies, under the guidance of prominent dental scientists and clinicians, were carried through in the clinics of several leading universities. Crest has been tested in daily use for many months. In all tests, Crest's effective action was verified beyond doubt.

Q. What about Crest's cleaning power?

A. No other dentifrice known cleans teeth more effectively than Crest Toothpaste.

Q. How about flavor?

A. Taste tests show that Crest is preferred for flavor over all other leading toothpastes.

Q. Does Crest prevent bad breath, too?

A. Yes. Since Crest with Fluoristan prevents decay as no other toothpaste can, it naturally prevents bad breath due to decay—as no other toothpaste can.

Fluoristan is Procter & Gamble's trademark for a decay fighter.

Nobel Winner Sees 'Something Rotten' In U.S. Passport Division

WASHINGTON (AP) — A noted chemist who was twice denied government permission to travel abroad testified Tuesday he felt there was "something rotten" in the State Department's passport division.

Dr. Linus C. Pauling, 54, head of the chemistry department at the California Institute of Technology and Nobel prize winner, told his story to a Senate subcommittee on constitutional rights.

The senators are making a three-week investigation of personal liberty in the United States and how it has been affected by the cold war with the Communist world.

Pauling said he had to sign at least half a dozen non-Communist affidavits before he finally got an unrestricted passport late last year to go to Sweden to receive his Nobel prize.

During his three year struggle with the passport authorities, appeals for help were made to President Truman and Secretaries of State Acheson and Dulles.

Pauling testified the State Department had told him he was a "concealed Communist." But he swore Tuesday he had never followed the Communist line "or any other line."

At the outset of the hearing, a spokesman for the Federation of American Scientists urged that Congress make new rules establishing that "a passport—as a permit to travel—is the right of every citizen, which can be denied only by due process of law."

This would serve "enormously" to relieve the pressure on the Passport Division, said the spokesman, Geoffrey F. Chew, professor of physics at the University of Illinois.

One of the "basic difficulties" in the passport situation, Chew testified, "is that the State Department feels it is doing a favor to a citizen in granting him a passport, and quite naturally the department is loath to do favors for people it doesn't like."

Sealed Alive

NEW YORK (INS) — The Navy disclosed that two crewmen who died on the radar ship Search were sealed alive in the blazing engine room to keep the flames from spreading.

One of the crew members said: "We could hear them screaming when we sealed off the engine room after the explosions, but there wasn't anything we could do. No one could have reached them."

The two men were identified as Chief Machinist's Mate James Leslie Poole, of Charleston Heights, S. C., and Engineman Herman Edward Buzbee, of Quincy, Mass.

A fuel tank blew up on the ship Sunday while it was 125 miles off of New York.

Jury To Get Tapia Arson Case Today

The second-degree arson trial of Penitentiary Inmate Raymond L. Tapia will go to the Lancaster District Court jury Wednesday.

Attorneys are to make their closing arguments Wednesday after the state and defense concluded testimony late Tuesday afternoon.

Inmate Rolland K. Gillette testified for the defense that Tapia was with him from the time the inmates left the dining hall until after the carpentry building was on fire.

Tapia, 23, from Denver, did not take the stand in his own defense.

State testimony by two guards identified Tapia as one of the inmates entering and leaving the carpenter shop just before smoke billowed from the building.

Omaha Haircuts Now Cost $1.50; Still $1.25 Here

OMAHA (AP) — The "official" price of a haircut went up to $1.50 in Omaha Tuesday.

It was still possible, however, to find some shops still charging $1 and a good many charging $1.25, which up to Tuesday had been the union approved price.

A meeting of barbers and shop owners Monday night set the new "minimum" price list including $1.50 for haircuts, $1.25 for children's haircuts and $1.25 for shaves.

Fred Lanning, president of Barbers Local 765, AFL, blamed the raise on "higher living costs and operating expenses."

In Lincoln most shops still charge $1.25, with a few charging only a dollar. Several barbers charge $1.50 for "flat-tops" because of the work involved.

Several Lincoln barbers said they are considering a price rise.

Bob Bayless, of Bob's Barber shop, said, "There is every indication that the price will go up, but nothing definite has been done."

County, Too, Asked To End 'Nuisance' Of Water Tower

The Lancaster County Board was asked Tuesday to take legal action to "abate the nuisance" created by the operation of the "K Street Station water cooling tower."

A similar petition, signed by 12 firms and 193 persons, had been submitted Monday by Atty. William L. Walker to the City Council and is pending before that body.

Walker alleged in the petition that pumps bring salt water from deep wells into the tower. Large fans blow over the water and a salty spray is carried from the tower over a five-block radius.

The salt water, Walker alleged, severely damages metals, automobiles and equipment.

Complaints have become more prevalent during the past four years, but Consumer Public Power District officials have said the cost of changing the operation of the tower at 8th and L would be prohibitive, Walker stated.

The County Board referred the petition to the county attorney for study and a report next Tuesday.

Board Approves Delaying Change For Irrigation

The Board of Educational Lands and Funds Tuesday gave final approval to a proposal to delay reclassification of state-owned school lands for five years after it is placed under irrigation.

Purpose of the delay is to enable the renter time to recover his investment in the irrigation works before the rent is raised.

The tenant bears the entire cost of preparing the land and bringing in the water.

Irrigated land is appraised higher than dry land, then the rent is higher, since the yearly rental is six per cent of the appraised value.

At Monday's public hearing on the rule, Warren Cunningham of Sidney urged a ten-year delay in up-grading the land.

Less Work

KANSAS CITY (INS) — Good news for the American housewife: Two agricultural experts predicted the nation's food processors will "do a larger and larger share of the work of preparing food for the table, and the housewife a smaller share."

Horace K. Burr and Everett R. Woford, researchers at the United States Department of Agriculture's Albany, Calif., station, also predicted the housewife would soon be cooking frozen reprocessed foods with radio-frequency energy and serving a wide variety of dinner menus in easy-to-prepare forms.

Wondering

PADUCAH, Ky. — J. T. Davis is wondering just how well the new $335 furnace might have worked.

It had been moved into the new house he is building.

Thieves broke in the window and carted the furnace out the door.

Crest Toothpaste with Fluoristan actually strengthens tooth enamel to lock out decay

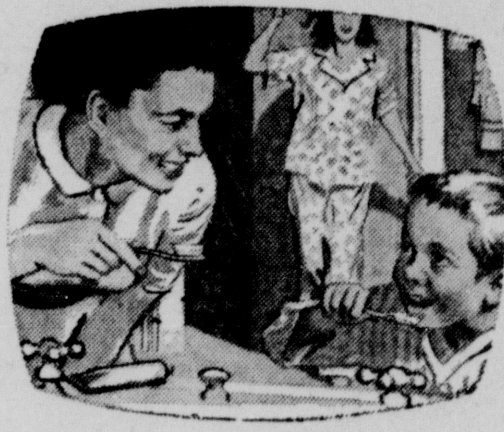

FLUORISTAN IS FLUORIDE IN ITS MOST EFFECTIVE FORM—PREVENTS CAVITIES FOR ADULTS AS WELL AS CHILDREN

Miracle of the Towns Without Toothaches. For years, children growing up in several Western towns were virtually without tooth decay. Then science learned why: nature's decay-preventive, fluoride, was present in their drinking water!

Science Long Tried To Put Fluoride—only medically-approved preventive of decay—in a toothpaste. But merely adding fluoride does not work. At last, university scientists and Procter & Gamble discovered Fluoristan—exclusive fluoride compound.

Fluoristan Makes Possible Crest—world's greatest weapon against tooth decay. Unless you get Fluoristan, you cannot get the full benefits of fluoride in a toothpaste. Protects all permanent teeth, for adults and for children, six and over.

Actually Strengthens Enamel. Crest combines with and strengthens tooth enamel as you brush. Microphoto at left shows how enamel strengthened by Crest ingredient, defies decay acids, while unprotected enamel (right) is eaten away by decay acids.

Prevents Most Cavities Where Toothbrush Can't Reach! Even between teeth, where food particles lodge (arrows), Crest gives the greatest protection ever known. Crest penetrates between teeth, strengthens enamel of entire tooth against decay.

Never Before Such Decay Prevention! Crest has been proven in the most extensive and best-documented research ever conducted on a toothpaste. The record of decay prevention established by Crest has never been equalled by any other product.

Tastes Wonderful—Refreshes Your Breath! Crest locks out bad breath caused by decay as no other toothpaste can. Gives you cleaner, whiter teeth. Best tasting, by actual tests. Every Crest brushing strengthens enamel against decay—even more reason to brush regularly! Get Crest today!

Ike Plans A Cabinet Meeting Next Week

... President Strolls About His Farm

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—President Eisenhower plans to hold early next week his first meetings with the National Security Council and Cabinet in more than three months.

The chief executive also will confer Thursday and Friday with Secretary of State Dulles, who is flying back from the Geneva foreign ministers conference.

Leisurely Exercise

The setting up of the series of meetings were part of the official business Eisenhower got in Tuesday as he combined a little work with some leisurely physical exercises.

In the role of country squire, Eisenhower walked around his farm this morning for about an hour and a half. And in the afternoon he got in a few putts on a newly installed green near his country home.

9 Deer Hunters Await Rescue In -20 Temperature

OGDEN, Utah (AP)—Faint radio signals reported nine deer hunters marooned at a remote ranger station in the rugged Wasatch Mountains Tuesday. Officials dispatched a snowmobile to their rescue. They also made plans to fly over the area to drop supplies and see if others might be in trouble.

While the temperature plunged to more than 20 degrees below zero in the mountains, the hunters were believed in no immediate danger.

They were trapped at the Monte Cristo ranger station by a sudden heavy snowfall. Their radio reports said the snow was 46 inches deep.

BOARD SEEMS AGAINST GAS TAX CASE APPEAL

Sentiment of the Lancaster County Commissioners appeared Tuesday against any appeal in the state gas tax distribution case, but they indicated they would confer with Co. Atty. Elmer Scheele before making a final decision.

"This whole gas tax mess has cost the county about $150,000 a year," Brehm said, referring to the 1955 Legislature which changed the gas tax formula after the controversy reached court.

The new formula reduced the previous shares of the more populous counties, giving a greater share to smaller counties and cities.

County Engineer L. W. Weaver said he didn't know what good it would do to appeal the case.

The county gets $190,000 under the case decision, Weaver explained, but it will lose that much each year under the Legislature's new formula.

Scheele has said the responsibility of appeal is under consideration, but that no decision has been made.

Douglas County has indicated it will appeal, seeking possible recovery of its "loss" in gas tax funds against former State Treasurer Frank Heintze and his bonding companies.

The Lancaster District Court ruled in the case that Heintze performed a "quasi-judicial" function in interpreting the distribution formula and thus was not liable for funds he distributed previous to legal action.

Family Disrupts School

HAZARD, Ky. (AP) — A family affair disrupted the second grade class. A mother dog had her pups underneath the classroom. Then whining pups and barking mother were more than the three R's could compete with. They were removed via a hole in the floor.

Now, This Looks Interesting

Some of the 14 students at District 107 School look through books they find interesting at the Lincoln City Library. The youngsters came to Lincoln as the first group of school children to visit the Library for National Book Week, which started Monday. Miss Harriet Helms, children's librarian, explained to them how to use the library and conducted a story hour. Looking at the books are (from left) Melvin Schroeder, Rex Scott (sitting on floor), Miss Helms, Dennis Johnson, Robert Lamasson and Bobby Paddleford. Mrs. H. C. Carl of Lincoln is teacher at the school, which is 4 1/2 miles west on Highway 6.

ALMOST ABANDONED, KIMBALL WELL SHOWS OIL

KIMBALL, Neb. (AP) — A well that was almost given up as a dry hole south of Kimball by the Maxey Drilling Company has brought in oil.

The company had little hope for the Hein No. 1 after a test believed to be in the upper J sand and a core taken further down failed to offer promise.

The well, between the Torgenson and Dietz fields, is six miles south and one mile east of Kimball.

Four other wells were completed as producers last week and five were plugged as dry holes, making 395 producers in the county.

Producing wells included Shell Oil's Johnson No. 2 on the east side of the Travis field; Magnolia's Ayres No. 1, an offset to the Bukin-State discovery in the southwest corner of the county; True Oil's Miles No. 5 in the Torgenson field; and Sam Joseph's Houthy No. 2-A in the Houthy field southwest of Dix.

Stocks Head High But Close Mixed

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market headed toward a new record high Tuesday but its drive was cut off by profit-taking.

It managed to produce a mixed close with prices a little higher on average but with more losers than gainers in the list.

The market has been forging ahead steadily for several days, and the high prices proved to be too much for money-minded traders who sold to turn their paper profits into cash.

The Associated Press average of 30 stocks was up 30 cents at $180.20, only $1.30 under the record high established Sept. 22 just before the market took a nose dive on news of the president's illness.

The rise Tuesday was modified by the fact that the industrial component advanced $1.30 but rails lost 70 cents while utilities remained unchanged. There also were more losers than gainers in the list of 1,198 issues traded—412 up and 812 down.

Thirty-one stocks made new highs for the year while 12 reached new lows. Volume was good at 2,560,000 shares but it couldn't match Monday's 2,760,000.

General Motors was the fifth straight time topped the most active list but it declined Tuesday for the first time since it advanced $1.

Chrysler, which was down a small fraction at one time, finished late in the session and rushed up for a gain of 3 1/2% as the day's second most active issue.

Ike Promises To Urge U.S. Treaties With Both Sides In Middle-East Crisis

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (INS) — President Eisenhower promised Tuesday night he will recommend U.S. treaty agreements with both sides in the tinderbox Middle East situation if Israel and Egypt accept a United Nations truce ending hostilities.

Mr. Eisenhower declared that if a U.N. settlement is agreed to, he is willing to advocate that this country sign treaties which would guarantee the territory of both Israel and its neighboring Arab states.

The President urgently called for a "just and reasonable settlement" of the Middle East problem and pledged full U.S. co-operation with the U.N. to achieve an end to the shooting in the highly strategic area.

The chief executive bluntly warned that "a threat to peace in the Near East is a threat to world peace."

Imperative

He declared that "the need for peaceful settlement becomes daily more imperative."

The President's views were contained in a statement sent Rabbi Abba Hillel Silver, New York Jewish leader, to be read to a rally in Madison Square Garden.

Mr. Eisenhower said that the problems between Israel and Egypt that have led the two countries to the brink of war "are capable of resolution by peaceful means."

He said that when a solution is found, he would be prepared to recommend that the U.S. enter into a treaty with other powers guaranteeing the borders of both Israel and Egypt.

Eden Rejected

JERUSALEM (INS) — Israel Premier David Ben-Gurion Tuesday night turned down British Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden's offer to mediate the explosive Middle East dispute on the ground it was designed to reduce Israeli territory.

Ben-Gurion told a crowded session of Parliament the proposal Eden made last week had "no legal, moral or logical basis and cannot be considered."

Ben-Gurion, who once served as Israel's defense minister, appeared in Khaki battle-dress, which is common garb during the winter. He spoke as the Army reported a new Israeli-Egyptian border incident—the firing on an Israeli plane by an Egyptian frigate.

Blame Ready

GENEVA (P) — The Western Big Three are completing a declaration that will blame Russia for the failure of this Geneva parley to bring a German settlement nearer, diplomatic sources reported.

They said the American-British-French declaration will be addressed primarily to the German people.

The Western intention is to issue it at the close of the conference of Big Four foreign ministers due Wednesday night.
